Praises Action.

Additional reductions of from 2 to 3 cents per gallon in the price of gasoline to become effective "within the next few days," were announced Tuesday night by R. N. Reed, of the Reed Oil corporation, this announcement coming on the heels of Governor Walker's call for a thorough probe into the prices of motor fuel oils in Georgia.

Governor Walker's decision to order a probe was announced Tuesday afternoon, just after he had affixed his signature to the Mann bill which increases the state tax from 1 to 2 cents per gallon on gasoline and after he had read Associated Press accounts of the "gasoline war" in the north and middle west.

Not Result of Urobs.
In announcing the reductions in gasoline prices in Atlanta, Mr. Reed stated that the forthcoming probe into gasoline and oil prices in Atlanta "in no way influenced the drop in prices." He added that "this drop in the next few days is in addition to the one-cent drop which went into effect Tuesday and is accounted for on the same conditions which have prevailed during the past several months in the oil markets and which governed the general reduction from 25 cents a gallon to 21 cents—the law of supply and demand."

E. D. Murphy, assistant general manager of the Standard Oil Company of Atlanta, said that as yet he had "received no confirmation of a report that the prices of gasoline in Atlanta would be further reduced."

Local dealers frowned upon any suggestion that there has been, or is at this time, any effort on the part of the big companies to "freeze out" the independent or small dealers, and emphatically declared that there was no "combination" or "agreement" which maintained a higher price for gasoline and oil in Atlanta than was justified by market conditions.

California, it was stated, has added a tremendous amount of crude oil to the supply during the past few days and that there is a greater supply of gasoline and oil now available than at any time in a long period. This condition, the dealers pointed out, brings about the drop in prices.

"Gas War" On In West.

Referring to the "gasoline war" in the north and middle west during the past few days and the drop in prices of several cents per gallon in those sections, Atlanta dealers stated that in many instances the prices were cut below the actual cost of production and that the prices would have to be advanced to a reasonable level. It was further pointed out that

Gives Conditions To Put
End To Passive Resistance in Ruhr.

Berlin, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The new cabinet headed by Chancellor Stresemann was given a vote of confidence today by the reichstag, 240 deputies out of a total of 341 favoring the government. Seventy-six votes were cast in opposition, while 25 deputies, supposed to be of the Bavarian people's party, abstained from voting. The other opposition came from the nationalists and communists.

The vote came after Dr. Stresemann had addressed the reichstag and given that body the new government's viewpoint on the general situation, and particularly with reference to the crisis brought about by the occupation of the Ruhr and the Rhineland. He informed the members of the chamber that Germany required complete restoration of her rights in the occupied territory as an essential to the abandonment of passive resistance. The setting free of all Germans imprisoned in the districts occupied by the French and Belgians and permission for the return of those who have been sent out of the occupied areas also were made conditions for a cessation of passive resistance.

No Sign of Weakness.
Dr. Stresemann declared the change in government was not a sign of weakness on the part of Germany. On the contrary, the change had brought into being the strongest cabinet, as regards opposition to any idea of permitting the violating of Germany, that the country had since the republic was formed.

Passing almost immediately to the question of the occupation of the Ruhr in his address, the chancellor said passive resistance was deeply rooted in the firm conviction of its justice. "This," he declared, "has been unequivocally recognized by the British government and we may assume that this statement of the British conception will find echo in France and Belgium."

Welcomes Arbitration.
Asserting that Germany would welcome arbitration of the Ruhr question, Dr. Stresemann added: "We have no doubt that any impartial decision would restore to us our Ruhr."

Settlements as Good
Models—President's Policies Outlined.

Washington, August 14.—President Coolidge is viewing the momentous events in Europe with anxious eyes and stands ready to respond to any call for help which will not impair the interests of this country.

An authorized white house spokesman said Tuesday that President Coolidge considers the address of Secretary Hughes at New Haven last December as the most complete statement of the administration's attitude. The new president stands ready to help and cooperate in any way that will not involve this country. He hesitates to make any offers of assistance, but he promises an earnest response to any appeals that offer promise of relief without entangling the United States in unwelcome obligations.

Regarding our foreign debts, President Coolidge intends to follow the policy of his predecessor, "insisting upon payment under conditions that will be fair to all parties." He regards the British and Finnish settlements as good models for the other debtor nations to follow, but his main concern is to do everything he can to collect the money, and details can be adjusted to fit particular conditions.

Statements of Policies.
Other statements of policy made by the white house spokesman, may be summarized as follows:

General.
The policies of the Harding administration will be followed. Whatever his policies were, these will be Coolidge policies. There will be some changes, as conditions develop, but no more than President Harding would of Contest.

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
First entries in The Constitution's beauty tournament to choose the most charming girl in the city and send her to Atlantic City early in September to compete for the title of "Miss America"—crowned queen of beauty of the North American continent—were received Tuesday.

The first three to enter the contest were Miss "Bootsie" Perkins, Miss Anne Kessnich and Miss Mary Rhorer, all of whom are widely known here alike for their charm of manner and beauty.

These were followed by a number of other lovely girls, whose photographs will appear in The Constitution between now and the close of the contest on August 22: "Miss Atlanta" will be named by the judges in The Constitution of Sunday morning, August 26.

In view of the fact that only eight days remain during which entries may be accepted, it is urged that all beautiful girls living in Atlanta, Fulton county or that part of the city lying in DeKalb county lose no time in qualifying for the title of "Miss Atlanta."

Dignified Contest.
All entrants are assured that the contest will be conducted throughout on the dignified standard always maintained by The Constitution and that no embarrassment in any detail will be suffered by them.

"Miss Atlanta" will go to the international beauty tournament at Atlantic City, on September 5, 6 and 7, to compete with recognized belles from a hundred big cities of the United States, Mexico and Canada.

The girl chosen for the international title will be awarded $5,000 gold medal and will for one year be recognized as the most beautiful girl in America.

Series of Gala Events.
A continuous series of entertainments and honors of all kinds await "Miss Atlanta" at Atlantic City. Balls, carnivals, a roller-chair pageant on the board walk and a bathing revue are chief events on the program, and in addition, every citizen of America's most famous ocean playground, from the mayor down, will unite in paying tribute to the representatives of the cities taking part in the tournament.

The national beauty tournament at Atlantic City is recognized everywhere as the premier event of its kind in the new world, comparing favorably with the celebrated beauty tournaments of fashionable foreign watering places.

"Miss Atlanta" will be selected on a basis of beauty and freshness of face and form, lack of artificiality, charm and poise of manner and general

GETS NEW JUDGE

Sign the Measure This Week to Relieve Congestion in Local Courts.

The bill providing an additional superior court judge for Fulton county, sponsored by the Fulton delegation, was passed by the house of representatives by a vote of 138 to 9 Tuesday afternoon. The bill will become a law as soon as signed by the governor, as it has already been passed by the senate. The governor is expected to sign it this week.

Declaring that judges have been sent to Atlanta from outside the city many times during the past two years and still the jails are full and the docket 5,000 cases behind, Representatives Smith and Wood, of the Fulton delegation, spoke for the measure.

Representatives Knight, of Berrien, and Stewart, of Atkinson, spoke for the bill, and Representative Wimberly, of Thomas, moved for the previous question before anybody had spoken against it.

Hollins Randolph as chairman of a committee from the chamber of commerce worked in favor of the bill. Mr. Randolph, in explaining the bill, stated that the additional judge will be appointed by Governor Walker to hold the post until a new one can be designated at the next general election.

That the creation of another judge will aid greatly in the task of clearing overcrowded Fulton county dockets, was the statement Tuesday night of Judge George L. Bell, when informed by The Constitution that the measure had passed the house.

"That's fine," he exclaimed, "There has been a crying necessity for this action."

Pitiful Scenes Enacted at Mine as Women and

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Kemmerer, Wyo., August 14.—Fighting their way through the partially dismantled portions of frontier No. 1 of the Kemmerer Coal company, one mile from here, scene of an explosion shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, rescue workers tonight had brought out alive 37 of the 138 miners entombed by the blast. It is feared that approximately 100 men still unaccounted for have perished.

The explosion occurred in the vicinity of the 1,700-foot level of the mine. Tonight rescue workers had penetrated to nearly every quarter of the underground workings, and it was indicated they had brought out all the men remaining alive. Smoke-buried in a cave-in on the 1,700-foot level in the workings in entry 15, gave rise to the belief that fire had followed the blast which tore down sections of the roof, ripped up tracks on which "trip" cars are operated and dismantled the electric wiring of the mine, plunging the smoke-filled depths into darkness. The cause of the explosion is presumed to have been a blowout shot, according to a statement issued late today by the Kemmerer Coal company.

No Fire Followed.
The company declared in the statement that no fire had followed the explosion. At the same time the company announced that rescue work was continuing and that the final figures on the number of victims in the disaster would not be known for a few hours.

Crowds of women and children, many of them made widows and orphans by the blast, gathered about the mouth of the shaft as the rescue work went on. Many were hysterical. When "trip" cars carrying the survivors came to the surface the crowd became almost uncontrollable, rushing forward in a mad effort to find their loved ones and Kemmerer police and volunteer workers experienced the greatest difficulty in keeping them away from the mouth of the shaft.

Fully one hundred volunteer workers were in the lower depths of the mine.

Tax reform measures, involving amendments to the state constitution, finally reached the floor of the house for debate on Tuesday afternoon, the forty-ninth day of the 1923 session of the Georgia general assembly with today the last day of the session.

While no vote had been taken on the various bills, substitutes and amendments, there is a possibility that the house will pass some sort of an income tax and classification tax measure today. This will be as a substitute for the Lankford bill, which has already passed the senate, so that, if the senate concurs in the house action, the big problem will have been settled and there will be no need for the extra session which Governor Clifford Walker has stated he will call if the legislature does not act before adjournment of this session, sine die.

The general appropriations bill, which has been amended on a number of items by the senate, comes up for consideration again in the house today. It is possible that conferences will have to be held to adjust the differences between the two bodies and this will undoubtedly consume considerable time of the concluding day of the session.

The general tax act, it is conceded, will not be passed until next year, the state reverting to the act of 1921

COOLIDGE NAMES
SLEMP SECRETARYVirginian Will Succeed
George Christian After Labor Day—Has Served
Term in Congress.

Washington, August 14.—Former Representative C. Bascom Slemph, of Virginia, has been tendered and has accepted the position of secretary to President Coolidge.

Announcement of Mr. Slemph's appointment was made today at the white house shortly after he had concluded an hour and a half conference with Mr. Coolidge. Mr. Slemph will not be able to close up his personal affairs and take permanent charge of his office until after Labor day, and in the meantime George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the late President Harding, will remain as presidential secretary.

The appointment of Mr. Slemph came as a surprise inasmuch as his name had not been mentioned in connection with the secretaryship. Among those who had been talked of as successors to Mr. Christian, who submitted his resignation last week, were Edward T. Clark, who was Mr. Coolidge's secretary as vice president, and Benjamin F. Felt, of Boston. Mr. Slemph was born at Turkey Cove, Lee county, Va., in 1870. He was graduated from the Virginia Military institute in 1891. He studied law at the University of Virginia, taught mathematics at the Virginia Military institute, and later practiced law at Big Stone Gap, Va., his present home.

Mr. Slemph has been prominent in republican politics for a number of years. He formerly was republican national committeeman from Virginia and since 1905 has been chairman of the Virginia republican state committee. He was an intimate friend of the late President Harding who offered him a place on the civil service commission, later the position of assistant secretary of commerce and more recently the post ambassador to Peru. All of the offers were declined. Announcement was made later that Mr. Clark would serve as the president's personal secretary.

After one of the most extended and bitter fights of the 1923 session, the senate Tuesday afternoon, by a vote of 26 to 11, adopted the house bill by Milner, of Dodge, providing for the levying of a special sales tax of 10 per cent on cigars and cigarettes. The measure having already passed the lower house, now goes to the governor for his signature before becoming effective.

While the governor declined to say definitely whether he would sign the tobacco tax measure, it is understood from leaders favoring the bill that the governor has not assumed an unfriendly spirit toward it, and their prediction is that he will approve it.

President George H. Carswell, of the senate, delivered an address in favor of the bill in which he scored a "powerful lobby" which he asserted had been engaged for several days in concerted efforts to kill the measure.

Flays Tobacco Lobby.
"I would be guilty of political cowardice," declared Mr. Carswell, "if I did not raise my voice at this time against such tactics. Not since 1905 and 1906 when an attempt was made by the legislature to enact a tobacco tax in Georgia, have I seen such a powerful lobby in the capitol confronting its members in the passage of a measure."

"They are gathered here today from all sections of the state to oppose this bill and I am convinced that nothing but selfish motives and interests are prompting such actions. In all of the twenty years that I have been in the Georgia general assembly I have never seen a more unfair or unjust lobby perpetrated the equal of this one."

"Its personnel is composed of many former representatives and senators and others who are being dominated by the American tobacco trusts. I am from south Georgia and I raise tobacco. If I thought the passage of this tax measure would affect a single producer of tobacco in the state I would fight the measure."

Recalls Liquor Fight.
"In 1905 and 1906 when the legislature was endeavoring to place a tax upon tobacco—a time when there was hardly any tobacco grown in Georgia—this same lobby came here and fought us in combination with a similar fight on the liquor taxation measures."

The bill stipulates that the first $500,000 derived from the tax on cigars and cigarettes, shall be appropriated for the erection of buildings and equipment for the state sanatorium.

Sign Language Motion Pictures At Deaf Meeting

Motion pictures in the sign language, which were shown on the roof of the Ansley, featured Tuesday night's entertainment for the delegates to the National Association of the Deaf convention. Four films were shown. Two were addresses, one was a song in the sign language and one showed pictures taken in Atlanta when the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf convened here in 1921.

A picture in which Dr. Edward Miner Gallaudet delivered an address several years ago, previous to his death, made it possible for him seemingly to greet the delegates in person. Dr. Gallaudet, founder of the Gallaudet College for the Deaf, Robert McGregor, retired teacher of the Ohio School for the Deaf, and Wingfield Marshall, of Washington, D. C., who sang "Yankee Doodle" in the sign language, were all photographed because they were considered the most graphic sign makers in America. An address by Dr. James H. Cloud, president of the National Association for the Deaf, and reports of officers and committees featured the Tuesday morning session of the 14th triennial convention of the association. Dr. Cloud reviewed the progress of the N. A. D. since its last convention in Detroit, in 1920, speaking of the remarkable growth of the association, especially in the south. Dr. Cloud recommended among other things that credits for knowledge and proficiency in the sign language be given in colleges for the deaf similar to credits granted in other languages. A. L. Roberts, secretary and treasurer, made his report on finances, saying that the finances of the association had increased considerably, due largely to the great number who have become life members. Following the reports of committees the session adjourned after a selection by the deaf band. Leaving the Ansley roof where they had been

Poincare To Give Courteous Reply To English Note

Paris, August 14.—(By the Associated Press).—Premier Poincare, who will return to Paris tonight, has informed his collaborators at the foreign office that he intends "in the most courteous manner possible" to reply point by point to the note of Lord Curzon, British secretary for foreign affairs, on the reparations question. Although the reply will be courteous, it is asserted in foreign office circles that it will be a stout reaffirmation of the French viewpoint and a flat rejection of the British suggestions.

The reply will be sent probably before the end of the week. Although it is no longer assumed in official quarters here that the entente may survive, the situation is taken calmly in governmental circles, as well as by the press and public. The French have long considered the entire situation in so far as it concerns cooperation between England and France on the application of the terms of the treaty of Versailles. Lord Curzon's note is taken as a public recognition of that fact by the British government, with the aim of throwing the responsibility upon France.

Premier Poincare, it is understood, will carefully omit anything that might be taken up as a denunciation of the entente, leaving the initiative in the final rupture to the British government. If Prime Minister Baldwin decides to call an international conference to fix Germany's capacity to pay, that action will be taken by the French, it is forecasted here. It is pointed out that the cordial relations which have existed for nearly 20 years. France will then recall the fact that after all she is the principal creditor of Germany and that she must be taken that her rights as such are not infringed upon.

VALUE OF SCIENCE IN MERCHANDISING URGED BY WIGGINS

Richmond, Va., August 14.—Urging the application of science to merchandising, President A. L. M. Wiggins, of Hartsville, S. C., in his annual address before the Southern Retail Merchants convention in session here today, declared that "too frequently it happens that the science of merchandising suffers at the hands of the art of merchandising."

It is through the art of merchandising, Mr. Wiggins said, that stores are filled with customers and trade volumes grow. But the science, he continued, "is unattractive, laborious, unexciting. It deals with facts and figures. It is cold, analytical—a matter of hard facts."

Irving S. Paul, personal representative of Secretary Herbert Hoover, of the United States department of commerce, told the merchants of the work that is being done by the commerce department in an effort to eliminate what he termed the "non-essential in commerce." The principal idea in view he said, was to solve the problem of distribution. Over-production, he declared, is clogging the marketplace and now seeking to curtail production wherever necessary and clear the way for continuous distribution of raw materials.

The merchants are faced with a full program for tomorrow's session, including an address by W. E. Billheimer, of St. Louis, who will speak on salesmanship.

Norfolk, Va., August 14.—Colonel William B. Colonel Causey will take office September 1, on which date the retiring city manager, Charles E. Ashburner, will report for duty as head of the city government of Stockton, California.

Colonel Causey returned on the Lehighan about two weeks ago from Europe. For several years he has been engaged in important engineering projects for the Austrian government.

BONDS ARE DEFEATED IN RUSSELL COUNTY

Seale, Ala., August 14.—(Special.) Although three precincts were still unheard from at a late hour tonight, an unofficial tabulation showed that the Russell county, Alabama, $180,000 indebtedness bond issue failed to carry by 75 votes.

The complete returns will be officially counted Wednesday. By the election will be determined the question of whether or not bonds will be issued for the purpose of paying off the county's indebtedness that the courts have held can not be repudiated on the grounds that through the mistake or mismanagement of previous officials the debt capacity has been exceeded.

Turner County Plan Launched in Twiggs

Jeffersonville, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—An address by W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, talks by prominent local farmers and business men, a big basket and barbecue dinner and music and songs by local talent were some of the features of the county-wide rally held here on the courthouse grounds today. The occasion of the rally was the first official meeting of the Twiggs county board of trade for launching the Turner county plan of rural development in Twiggs county.

Mr. Anderson was the principal speaker of the day, urged alliance of the various factors of production and distribution, and a more efficient marketing system. He outlined the conditions that confront the farmers of this section and declared that a period of transition was being experienced in the whole agricultural life of the south. A big crowd heard him, and all gave his remarks the closest attention.

The Telegraph editor was introduced by Rev. C. J. Broome, pastor of the Jeffersonville Baptist church, who presided during the program of speaking and music. W. C. Stokes, clerk of the city court here, arranged the day's program. Other speakers on the program were W. E. Hoyle, mayor of the city of Jeffersonville; Hon. Dudley M. Hughes, of Danville, Ga.; E. S. Fitzpatrick, superintendent of county schools; Mrs. J. I. Mercer, member city board of education; Irvin Fitzpatrick, president of the Twiggs county trade board; C. R. Faulk, cashier Danville bank; Congressman W. W. Larsen; D. H. Beck, general manager, Georgia Canning company; C. H. Bishop, manager, Ashburn; J. E. Hart, Laurens county agent; J. C. Shannon, Sr., president of the Twiggs County bank; Rev. W. W. Howell, member board of county commissioners; Rev. W. J. Burton, of Edison; Dr. J. A. Smith, presiding elder of the Macon district; Mrs. W. R. Carwell, home demonstration agent, and J. A. Johnson, district agent.

Barbecue Dinner. A big barbecue and basket dinner was served on the court house grounds of long tables and plenty of lemonade furnished free to the throngs of people present.

St. Sauls Fiddlers and the Cannon and Cool Springs community singers provided music for the program and for the dinner hour also.

Baker Jones gave a reading, "The Champion Suerer," and duets and other special music were given. The organization of the Twiggs county Board of Trade was completed at the morning session of the rally. The body will go directly into plans to put the Turner county plan of farm development into operation in this county. It is said.

Great enthusiasm was shown throughout the day as the program was carried out and plans discussed. The farmers of this section together with the business men feel that something must be done to bring back prosperity.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN CHURCH NAME TO CAUSE FIGHT

Girard, Ala., August 14.—(Special.) Rev. O. F. Barnes, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Girard, in a statement Tuesday, emphatically declared his church would oppose the plan of Rev. A. V. Pickens, pastor of the First Baptist church of Phenix City, to change the name of the Phenix church to that of the First church of Phenix.

"The Girard Baptist church is the oldest church on this side of the river," said Mr. Barnes, "and will not acquiesce in changing of the name of the First Baptist church of Phenix City to the First church of Brandon. The controversy is the result of the only hope of the Georgia tiller of the soil."

PERRYMAN ENTERS SOLICITOR'S RACE

Jones Perryman, member of the house of representatives from Talbot county, has announced his candidacy for solicitor-general of the Chattahoochee circuit. Mr. Perryman is a well-known attorney of Talbotton and is also editor of the county paper there.

The primary for this office will be held next year. The Chattahoochee circuit is one of the largest in the state, including the counties of Macon, Harris, Talbot, Taylor, Marion and Chattahoochee. The present solicitor is Walker Flournoy, who was appointed last fall by Governor Hardwick to fill the unexpired term of Frank McLaughlin, who resigned. Mr. Perryman is expected to make a strong candidate for the office, many of his friends from the circuit having visited the capitol during the present session, assuring him of their support.

Mr. Perryman has practiced law for the past fifteen years and has handled some of the largest civil and criminal cases in middle-west Georgia. He is well known throughout the entire circuit as an able and competent attorney. In the legislature, Mr. Perryman is a familiar figure, having represented Talbot county for three terms in the house. He is chairman of the penitentiary committee of the present house, which is composed of 75 members, and is an active member of several other important committees. He is exceptionally active in measures looking to improve the penal institutions of the state and a number of his bills seeking this end are now before the legislature and will come up early in the 1924 session. He has vigorously supported all moves to divorce the state's pardoning powers from politics, and is one of the hardest workers of an assembly notable for its close application to its business.

KLAN IS ENJOINED BY NEW YORK COURT

Elizabethtown, N. Y., August 14.—Supreme court Justice Ellis J. Staley tonight granted an injunction sought by the state of New York restraining the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., and the Kamella, Inc., its sister organization, from acting as chartered benevolent fraternal organizations in New York state.

Declaring that the statutes clearly intended a certificate of incorporation "should be approved in the form in which it was filed and in the form in which it was approved," Justice Staley held that the act of incorporating the Klan and Kamella in altering the certification of incorporation after approval and before filing was "not only an illegal and unauthorized act but also an imposition and fraud upon the court."

New York, August 14.—Federal Judge Winslow today denied the petition of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., of Georgia, for a preliminary injunction restraining the International Magazine company, controlled by William Randolph Hearst, from publishing articles by Norman Hapgood regarding the Klan.

BERTRAM M. STEWART, AVIATOR, DIES IN FALL

Washington, August 14.—Bertram M. Stewart, of Washington, was instantly killed today when an airplane he was piloting fell 1,000 feet near here. John Ward, Jr., of Harlan, Ky., was seriously injured.

Mayor Sims and Lions "Star" in Movies To Promote Interest in Campaign For Atlanta Central Park

Scene at the filming of the Lions' club's moving picture to be shown here soon in the interest of the park bond issue campaign. At the left is shown Cameraman James B. Buchanan, grinding away while the group discusses ways and means of converting the dump heap at their feet into rolling greenwards and lovers' lanes and bridal paths. The bareheaded gentleman in the center indicating the undesirable rubbish heap with his extended hat is Mayor Sims. At his left is J. R. Regnas, former president of the Lions. The industrious Lion with the pick on his shoulder is Roy Mather, president of the club. Photo by Francis Price.

Mayor Sims and several leading members of the Lions' club entered the movies Tuesday. No fabulous salaries will reward their histrionic efforts for their work was not the sort that would attract the attention of D. W. Griffith and the other big producers. Their only remuneration for their appearance before local theater audiences within a few days will be the feeling that they have accomplished something worth while in the interest of the present park bond issue campaign. No title has been chosen for the picture, but from a peep at the scenes filmed Tuesday afternoon by Cameraman James B. Buchanan indications were that the reel will be extremely interesting. It should create considerable public interest in behalf of the proposed central park, a project which the Lions' club is heartily supporting.

Shows Lack of Parks.

Depicting the lack of park facilities in Atlanta and showing views of property running northward from the Y. M. C. A. to Georgia Tech, which it is proposed that the city buy and convert into a park, the picture will be released for public showing just a few days previous to the primary on September 5, in which a vote on the proposed $2,000,000 park bond issue will be taken.

After an enthusiastic luncheon of the Lions' club Tuesday, a delegation called on Mayor Sims and induced him to accompany them to the park site and participate in the inspection of the land.

Mayor Swings Pick.

At the north end of the site, the group paused for Cameraman Buchanan to take the first exposures of the park picture. To show they were in dead earnest, the mayor and several Lions took it time about swinging a heavy pick into the earth. This outburst of energy was at the instruction of "Director" Press Huddleston, who desired that somebody register "industry."

The completed film will be the Lions' club's donation to the central park movement. The Lions were among the first civic groups to offer active support to the enterprise.

Service Bill Passes.

A house bill by Representative Hatcher, of Burke county, providing for the creation of a service bureau to assist ex-service men in obtaining compensation, vocational training and medical treatment, as provided for under federal laws, was passed Tuesday by the senate, after two amendments had been tacked on.

An amendment by Senator Lanford struck from the bill that provision which provides that the director of the service bureau shall be certified to the governor by the American Legion. As amended, the bill simply provides for the appointment of a director by the governor and that the director shall be an ex-service man.

The second amendment, offered by Senator Pace, appropriated $2,400 for maintenance of the bureau.

Viaduct Plan Approved By Senate Committee

The W. & A. committee of the senate voted Tuesday afternoon, 9 to 5, to give the city of Atlanta permission to construct viaducts over W. & A. tracks at Central avenue and Pryor street. The bill now goes to the senate and is expected to come up for final action during the closing day of the session.

Mayor Walter A. Sims, and a number of property owners directly interested in the viaduct projects at both points, have been actively supporting the measure and have appeared before the committee to urge favorable action. The delegation has been equally as active in pressing the matter for action at the present session to avoid a delay of one year if final action was not taken at this session.

The measure was considered at a special meeting of the senate committee, requested by Mayor Sims, and interested property owners and senators favoring the granting of permission appeared to urge favorable action.

Increase State Property.

Senator E. M. Smith, of the 35th district, pointed out the advantages which the viaducts would bring about, and the improvement of the property of the W. & A. railroad at no expense to the state. He also told the committee that the matter would meet almost unanimous favor in Atlanta.

Senator John Camp Davis, of the forty-second district, favored the bill and recited instances in Chicago and other leading cities where property values were greatly enhanced by construction of viaducts. He stated, too, that the two viaducts would give additional means of ingress and egress, would reduce the danger of accidents and generally speed up traffic by lifting it out of the track level.

Approve Plaza Committee.

A resolution by Hamby, of the fourth district, was unanimously passed by the committee, and provides for appointment of a commission composed of five members of the house and three senators to acquaint themselves with all matters connected with property owned by the state in the city of Atlanta, along and adjacent to the Western and Atlantic railroad terminal, and certain tracts under and across Central avenue, Whitehall, Pryor, Forsyth and Spring streets.

The resolution states that the investigation is in connection with "considerable mention and discussion in the newspapers of needs of more slightly improvements along said property." Special mention is made of proposed construction of over this property of the Bleckley Plaza.

The author of the resolution criticised the present condition of the property and said it was "unsightly." The report of the committee, provided for under the Hamby resolution, would be submitted, with recommendations, at the 1924 session of the general assembly.

Charter Changes Adopted.

A house bill, providing for a number of amendments to the charter of the city of Atlanta, was passed Tuesday by a vote of 40 to 0. The bill was introduced by the Fulton delegation and amends the charter as follows:

Providing for six city depositories instead of four as at present.

Providing for the consolidation of the office of city registrar and city tax collector.

Providing for the collection of a fee for the issuance of building permits, with a maximum of $25.

Providing for the repeal of a provision requiring the city to maintain a 10 per cent fund for maintenance of 10 per cent street paving bonds, commonly known as "baby bonds."

The bill now goes to Governor Walker for final approval.

By a vote of 38 to 5, the senate took from the table the house bill providing for removal of the county site of Brantley county from Hoboken to Nahutta. A vote was taken without debate on the measure and it passed.

A bill by Representative Culpepper, of the house, was passed by the senate at the morning session. The bill provides for the reimbursement of members of the public service commission for funds paid out in 1920 for an audit of the books of the gas properties of the Georgia Railway and Power company.

DEAD BODY FOUND FLOATING IN CREEK

Senola, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) The body of a white man, apparently about 35 years old, was found floating in Line creek, about three miles from here, late this afternoon. A rope was tied to the legs.

The skull had been crushed, and the body was so badly decomposed that identification was impossible. Persons who viewed the body said the man had been dead about a week.

The body was discovered by autoists as it floated down the creek near the bridge on the automobile highway between here and Fayetteville.

No disappearances have been reported in this locality, which adds to the deep mystery surrounding the death.

The coroner was summoned immediately after the body was discovered, but at a late hour tonight has not arrived and the body remained on the bank of the creek where it was pulled from the water.

ATLANTA WOMAN IS NAMED MUSCOGEE PROBATION OFFICER

Columbus, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—The formal election of Miss Beulah Martin, of Atlanta, as full time probation officer for Muscogee county was a matter of public interest before the county commissioners at their regular monthly session Tuesday. Her election was in accordance with the recommendation of the advisory commission named by the board some time ago that was understood to have been concurred in by members of the commission.

WARDLAW MILLS SOLD TO MILLER INTERESTS

Chattanooga, Tenn., August 14.—Felix Miller, son of G. H. Miller, one of Chattanooga's leading merchants, and George B. Smith, former superintendent of the United Hosiery Mills, have purchased the Wardlaw Hosiery Mills and several pieces of adjoining property for a consideration of $125,000. It is announced that the Miller interests will enlarge the mill and increase its capacity. G. H. Miller recently sold his stock in the United Hosiery Mills to his nephew for something like $1,000,000 and retired temporarily from the hosiery business, but this recent purchase means that he will reenter the textile business, notwithstanding the deal was made in the name of his son.

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS SEEK NEW MEMBERS

Columbus, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—With the view to enlisting every rural mail carrier in the fourth congressional district as a member of the Carriers' association it possible and urging the attendance upon the annual convention of Georgia carriers to be held in Columbus on September 3 and 4, B. L. Camp, of Whitesburg, president of the fourth district association has issued a strong appeal to carriers in which he sets forth the purposes of the organization.

It is expected that the convention will be largely attended by carriers from all over the state and that it will mark a step of decisive progress in the organization that as yet is new in Georgia.

I. T. U. President Beaten In Seating Controversy

Credentials Committee Is Overridden; Challenged
Delegates Keep Places
by Convention Vote.

Overriding both its credentials committee and President Charles P. Howard, the International Typographical union convention Tuesday voted to seat two delegates whose places had been contested. The action of the convention came after a stormy session of two hours, in which committee recommendations and executive authority were challenged by the opposition force which finally prevailed in the cases of the two delegates whose seating was the subject of controversy.

Major George L. Berry, of the Pressmen's Home, Tennessee, former senior nation vice commander of the American Legion, and president of the Printing Pressman's union, in an address before the union, declared that the "big five" will not consider any program looking towards the amalgamation of all the unions of the printing industry into one big union. He further stated, however, that his union would co-operate to secure the right of collective bargaining, to oppose any publisher who refused to recognize any of the "big five" unions, to defend any one of the "big five" organizations against mistreatment by any publisher and to oppose any employer who refuses to arbitrate.

Arbitration Favored.

"We will not join any organization which has for its purpose the forcing of issues by strike or arbitration can be effected," said Major Berry, "it is our judgment when the unions or employers have a disposition to arbitrate, that arbitration is the best method of settling the dispute. In the interest of the maintenance of industrial peace arbitration is the ideal method of settling controversies."

John J. Manning, secretary of the labor trades department of the American Federation of Labor, launched a vigorous attack against the activities of chambers of commerce, boards of trade and similar organizations. He said that the organizations are enemies of organized labor and that laboring people should understand that. He urged members of labor organizations to buy goods with the union label in them.

Communications Read.

The morning session was opened with the reading of communications from leaders of other labor groups. Among those sending greetings to the sixty-eighth convention were the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, the International Stereotype and Electrotype unions, and the North Carolina State Federation of Labor.

About two hours of the second session was consumed in a controversy concerning the recommendations, which the credentials committee made, concerning the seating of certain contested delegates. The first issue was raised in the case of Edward A. Smith, whose right to sit in the convention had been contested by Martin J. Mangan, both of Birmingham, N. Y. Smith was seated by a vote of the convention which failed to concur in the opinion of the committee.

Administration Reversed.

The second ballot was taken in the case of Dowell E. Patterson, of Charleston, S. C., whose eligibility as a delegate had been contested, and resulted in a reversal of the action of the committee. The credentials committee had recommended that Patterson be seated, but the convention voted to seat the challenger, Martin J. Mangan.

Throughout the debates, President Howard contended for a strict literal construction of the laws of the union, but James S. Hoban, of Cleveland, Ohio, took exception to the attitude of the chair and demanded a roll call. The forces of the administration lost the fight by an exceedingly narrow margin of 125 to 128, and as a result of the ballot Mr. Patterson was seated.

REVENUE REFORM REACHES HOUSE

for its authority to collect its special taxes and occupation taxes.

One Day Left.

With but one day of the 1923 session left, the general assembly swung into the home stretch Tuesday with a rush of accomplishment.

In the senate, the house bill by Miller, of Dodge, putting a ten per cent tax on cigarettes and cigars, was passed by vote of 26 to 11, after one of the most bitter debates of the session.

The senate unanimously adopted the majority report of the special committee which investigated the state highway department.

In the house, the bill to provide an additional judgeship for Fulton superior court was passed 138 to 9.

Observers Hoped.

Smith, in addition, Capitol observers were highly gratified when the house began debate on the measures providing for constitutional amendments to bring about tax reform. Possibility that a vote will be taken today were regarded as strong. Then, if the senate accepts the house action, and one of the three reform bills is finally passed, the necessity for an extraordinary session will have been removed, and the solons can go back home to lay aside lawmaking responsibilities until next June.

There are, of course, numerous other measures on the calendar, but none of these are of sufficient importance to cause a special session if they should not be passed on this year.

The general tax act, passed by the house in 1922, and the state will revert to the act of 1921 for the collection of its special and occupation taxes.

The general appropriations bill, passed by both houses, will go to conference today and committees will consider various amendments added by the senate, with strong likelihood of agreement being reached. The chief points at issue are on appropriations for the state market bureau and for the payment of pensions.

Late Session Opposed.

There is a strong sentiment among members against an all-night session tonight, which has been customary at the wind-up of previous legislatures, and it is thought probable that an effort will be made to conclude proceedings and adjourn sine die at a comparatively early hour.

Debate on the tax reform measure began Tuesday when the committee substitute for the Lankford measure, which is senate bill No. 3, was introduced. The committee substitute provides for an income tax, to be graduated with a maximum rate of 5 per cent, and with reasonable exemptions. Details of the rate and exemptions, are left to be worked out by the legislature after the people have ratified the amendment at the polls.

he bill also provides that the legislature shall be empowered to classify all forms of property held in the state for taxation purposes.

Retains Five Mill Limit.

W. R. Jones, of Meriwether, chairman of the committee on constitutional amendments, which presented the bill, was the speaker in favor of the bill. Jones pointed out that the classification clause would allow the legislature to reduce the ad valorem rate, but that the constitutional limitation of five mills would automatically prevent any increase. He also stated his belief that with an income tax providing for a new source of revenue, it would be possible to reduce the ad valorem rate and, possibly, eventually do away with it altogether.

As soon as the debate on the bill was begun, a flood of substitutes and amendments was offered. Numerous speakers expressed their views and, with but one or two exceptions, all stated they favored an income tax of some form. Mr. Rowe, of Richmond county, author of a substitute offered, spoke against the income tax idea, stating that he favored classification, but was opposed entirely to a state income tax.

Wants Special Session.

Among other speakers were Stovall, of Elbert, who urged a reduction in the ad valorem to four mills, Parks, of Terrell, who pleaded for postponement of consideration until a special session, declaring that there was not sufficient time left for the consideration of the measure, and Elders, of Tattall, who spoke in favor of a substitute bill of his own.

Jones, of Coweta; McCullough, of Troup; Moore, of Appling; Ellis, of Tift, and Rowe, of Richmond, were others who spoke on the measure.

Just before adjournment, a resolution, signed by 108 members of the house, was introduced, calling upon the assembly to adjourn sine die at 6 P. M. Wednesday.

Bozeman, of Worth, spoke for this resolution, stating that he wanted to do away with the all night session on the last day, and charging that every year many measures were passed without the members of the house knowing anything of them.

Miller, of Dodge, vice chairman of the rules committee, opposed the resolution on the ground that it was a mistake to determine in advance at what hour the adjournment should be.

when there was no knowing what the legislative situation might be when the hour arrived.

At this point W. R. Jones, of Meriwether, made a motion to adjourn, which carried, and thus cut off debate.

Griffin Judicial Circuit.

At the morning session the house passed, by a vote of 123 to 58, a bill to create a new judicial circuit to be known as the Griffin circuit, and to be composed of the counties of Fayette, Spalding, Pike and Upson, now part of the Flint circuit.

A bill to allow county commissioners to employ county agents, as well as county boards of education, in counties where desired, was passed by a vote of 142 to 43.

A number of minor measures were disposed of at the morning session, among others a bill to abolish the salary system for the solicitor of the Blue Ridge circuit, and re-establish his office on the fee system. This bill was defeated.

The senate measure by Senator Garlick, placing motor buses under the control of the state public service commission, and prescribing regulations, was also voted down.

"Peach" Loses Seat.

Representative Ennis, of Baldwin, attempted to introduce a resolution to seat J. E. Davidson as the member from Peach county, but the speaker ruled that the resolution was not privileged and would have to be submitted to the rules committee for a place on the calendar.

While the senate received the report of the special committee which has investigated the state highway department, and adopted the majority report unanimously, the report did not reach the house and will come up at today's session.

It was also reported to the house late in the afternoon that the conference committees which had been trying to adjust differences between the two houses on resolutions to investigate the state department of agriculture had failed to agree, and Speaker W. Cecil Neill appointed a new committee, composed of Representatives Linder, of Jeff Davis; Knight, of Berrien, and Bennett, of Dodge.

TOO MUCH TALKING IS FATAL TO SALE OF DOG-FED TURTLE

Forsyth, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—An employee of one of the Forsyth cotton mills tried to sell recently to R. B. Stephens, prominent banker of Forsyth, a turtle which weighed about ten pounds.

He was walled on the way to a trade when he "balled up" negotiations by relating some of the voracious tendencies of the turtle. He related how the turtle in conjunction with several others, some of which weighed as much as thirteen pounds, had been in the habit of visiting his chicken yard and devouring chickens and eggs. This particular turtle and several others were captured one day, he said, and tied out in the yard. While they were at dinner the turtles devoured his dog.

At this point gastronomic objections arose on the part of Mr. Stephens, as he had no inclination whatever to appease his appetite upon a turtle which had been dog-fed.

REWARDS OFFERED FOR MACON FLOGGERS

Macon, Ga., August 14.—At the request of Sheriff J. R. Hicks, city council tonight offered an additional reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of persons guilty of whippings in this city during the last few days.

Earlier in the day Sheriff Hicks had offered a reward of $500, and Governor Walker had increased the state's rewards to $1,000. Tonight the Ku Klux Klan, at a meeting, announced that it would add $100 to the rewards.

Alderman R. E. Findlay, chairman of the police committee of city council, informed that body tonight that although victims of whippings were reluctant to give information, through fear of violence, the police were making headway and he believed that results will be obtained.

New Committees Named In Farm Probe Proposal

Stability of conference committees from the senate and house appointed to adjust differences existing between the two bodies on the Lankford resolution and that by Representative Stewart, calling for an investigation of the state department of agriculture, resulted Tuesday afternoon in discharging of both committees and appointment of new ones by President Carswell and Speaker Neill. The two committees, composed of Representatives Stewart, Rutherford and Harrell and Senators Mason, Green and Passmore, met Tuesday afternoon and attempted to reach an agreement over the two measures, both of which had been passed by the body in which they originally introduced. The house committee refused to agree on any except the Lankford measure. After the conference the two committees reported back to their respective bodies and were discharged.

New Committees Named

President Carswell, in naming a new committee, chose Senators Lankford, author of the senate measure; Latimer and Smith, of the thirty-fifth. Speaker Neill appointed Representatives Linder, of Jeff Davis; Knight, of Berrien, and Bennett, of Dodge, to act on the new house committee. A conference will be held Wednesday morning, it was announced. Efforts will be made by the new joint conference committee to effect an agreement on one of the two bills pending. If this should fail, it is the intention of the commission to draft a new substitute resolution which would prove satisfactory to both the Stewart and Lankford factions.

Representative Stewart declared following the unsuccessful attempt of the first joint conference committee to reach an agreement, if necessary, so as to strike from it specific charges of irregular expenditures against Commissioner J. J. Brown as contained in the house measure. This is the only principal difference in the two resolutions, it was pointed out. Both resolutions provide for a thorough investigation of the agriculture department and recite that a joint commission be named to conduct a probe of the department within 60 days following adjournment of the 1923 general assembly. A report of the commission is to be filed with Governor Walker, together with recommendations, which are to receive attention from the general assembly at its session next year.

Floyd County Farmers Call Off Tour of State

Ravages by Cotton Leaf Worm Demand Presence of Workers on Farms at This Time.

BY THOMAS J. BRYSON.

Constitution Bureau
Masonic Temple Annex
Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) Floyd county's tour of south Georgia has been called off for the time being because of the appearance in the county of the cotton leaf worm, which demands the presence of farmers on their farms.

The worm was reported today in the Everett Springs district, and after investigation, County Demonstrator Collins advised farmers against leaving their crops until they have matured. As a consequence, the trip was definitely called off for the time being shortly after noon today. At least 60 Floyd county farmers had intended making the trip, which was to include visits to Corvinton, Athens, Macon, Elton, Moultrie, Thomasville, Albany, Perry and Griffin. The object of the tour was to get ideas which the farmers might use in combating the boll weevil by diversified farming.

The trip has not been called off permanently, but probably will be made some time later. With the invasion by the cotton leaf worm assuming serious proportions, there is little calcium arsenate to be had here. Less than 10,000 pounds was in stock in the county yesterday morning and more than half of this was sold yesterday.

Tennis Tournament.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) Play in the north Georgia tennis tournament will begin at the Coosa Country club at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and will continue throughout the week.

The entry list is considerably larger this year than ever before. Jefferson Davis Hunt, of Atlanta, southern champion, will be a spectator at tomorrow's games.

Atlantans Honor Guests.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) Two Atlanta newspaper men and John Paschall, of The Journal, and James A. Hollomon, of The Constitution, were guests of honor tonight at the regular monthly meeting of the Rome President's club. Dinner was served at the General Forrest hotel. Both visitors made short talks as did Ben Yancey, chairman of the entertainment committee; Edward Turner, president of the Farm bureau; Secretary Grice, of the Chamber of Commerce.

James B. Nevin, of The Georgian, and Frank Reynolds, of the Anselmy hotel, who were invited but found it impossible to come, sent their regrets. Two Home-owners' songs featured the meeting. "My Dream Garden" was written by Mrs. Fred Vassiere. Secretary Grice wrote the words and Paul Nixon the music to "Optimist Burg."

World War Memorials.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) After having been five years without anything resembling a memorial to those who lost their lives in the world war, the city now seems to be in a fair way to have two memorials, erected almost simultaneously—one by the American Legion post here and the other by the World War Memorial association.

One of the monuments, according to present plans, will be erected on a plot of ground behind the city hall and the Carnegie library building, while the other is to be set up in the city cemetery where it touches the corner of Broad street. The memorial association will erect the one on the city hall plot, while the legion's memorial will go in the cemetery.

Decision by the two organizations to go ahead with separate plans follows failure to agree on the sort of memorial and the location for it. The memorial association set on foot a movement to erect a suitable monument to Floyd county's dead soldiers several years ago. After having raised several dollars, the plan was never pushed for some time.

Then the local camp of the American Legion took up the matter. Some members of the legion wished to have the legion's memorial one dedicated specifically to Charles Graves, "known hero" of America. Other members wish to have it a general memorial to all Floyd county's soldiers dead. This phase of the matter will be threshed out Friday night at a special meeting of the legion and a definite decision reached.

Meanwhile, the memorial association is pushing its plans to raise funds to finish paying for a handsome slab ordered for the memorial. It is planning. On this slab, it is planned to plant the monster 155 millimeter gun from the battlefields of France, shipped to Rome to be used in a memorial. The legion has been planning to use the same gun.

Gun In Dispute.
The memorial association holds that it was through work of its members that the gun was secured and that they and they alone are entitled to it. The legion is not inclined to discuss this phase of the matter, contenting itself with saying that the gun they plan to use will be forthcoming at the proper time.

The legion announces that it will inaugurate a campaign to raise funds immediately. The memorial association has already arranged to bring ex-Governor Alf Taylor of Tennessee, here to lecture in behalf of its campaign for funds. Arrangements for the lecture are already completed. Neither the legion nor the Memorial association will discuss plans of the other organization except in a general way. Both assume the attitude that the other's activities are no concern of theirs.

Farms on Cash Basis.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) Scores of Floyd county farmers are operating their farms on a cash basis this year for the first time in their lives due to money obtained through the local curb market, according to bankers who were interviewed on the matter today.

There has been a very marked drop in the number of farmers who have come in to borrow money on which to operate, officials of every bank in Rome are unanimous in declaring. In addition, quite an appreciable number of farmers have actually been able to deposit small sums almost every week after paying their operating expenses, several bankers report. There can be no question, these bank officials state, but the curb market has proven the salvation of many farmers who were faced at the beginning of the year with an almost hopeless prospect.

And, in addition to supplying them with cash, the market has taught these farmers how to prepare their products for market and has widened their out-of-town markets, one banker points out. He cites the case of a customer of his bank who is now selling produce in Atlanta and Chattanooga for the first time in his life because he has learned at the curb market here how to make his products salable in these larger markets.

Gas Fight Dropped.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) The threatened fight on increased gas rates for Rome is believed now to have been dropped for good. City officials state that the quality of gas being served here now is far above that of several months ago and if not quite up to the standard set by the public service commission in its order authorizing a raise in rates, it is so near it that the difference is negligible.

About two months ago, the public service commission authorized a raise in local rates from $1.65 to $2.10. The order specified, however, that a higher quality of gas must be furnished. For a time after the order was passed, city officials held that the required standard was not being met and intimated that they would fight paying the higher rate. Now, however, it is believed that the matter has been definitely settled and that Rome's "gas war" which raged for several years, is finally over.

Fire Boys Inactive.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) Rome's fire department is in danger of forgetting how to do its stunts, due to the fact that the members are not getting practice enough to keep them sharp. The last call turned in here was on August 3, and that proved to be only an automobile which had caught fire. In the last thirty days, they have had nothing that remotely resembled a real fire, even of small proportions.

Berry Is Flooded.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) With far more applicants than the school can accommodate, Berry schools are still receiving requests for enrollment at the rate of 70 per day. If there were accommodations for them, there is little question, officials of the institution state, but that more than 1,000 students would be enrolled by the time school opens on August 18. As it is, it is hoped that accommodations can be found for 600, which is almost 100 more than were enrolled last year.

There were students at Berry last year from a dozen states, all of them in this section of the country, and there is reason to believe that one or two others will be represented this year. College authorities are busily engaged now in stretching the school's accommodations to the limit so that as few will be turned away as possible.

Sheriff Improves.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) Sheriff R. E. Wilson, who has been at a local sanitarium for the past two weeks recuperating from the effects of an operation, was transferred to his home late today. It is expected that it will be another week before he will be able to be at his desk again.

DENIES FRENCH AIMS ARE IMPERIALISTIC

Williamstown, Mass., August 14.—No good is done by Germany's insisting that the French are mere imperialists, Canon Ernest Dimmet of Paris, said in a lecture today at the institute of politics at Williams college.

Canon Dimmet replied to an attack on the French policy made by Count Harry Kessler, of Germany in an institute lecture last night. Declaring that France was on the brink of an agreement with Germany, he said: "Any Frenchman, one of whom I am, detests the idea of an inch of German ground being added to French territory. The Ruhr occupation was the result of two increasing visions of the French mind—security and justice. All French people, but especially those living in Northern France, live in dread of a German revival made more dangerous by the treaty of Rapallo and openly avowed by Nitti. The idea of justice is certainly endangered by the general expropriation of German responsibilities and by the accompanying expropriation of German indebtedness. The realization of this gradually brought the French mind to count only upon themselves. Hence the occupation of the Ruhr."

Canon Dimmet asserted that the high hope of a rapprochement with Germany lay in the economic domain. "It seems extraordinary," he said, "that people do not see it as it is, an irresistible current which drives France toward Germany, as the current which slowly but surely drives America toward Europe. Even now we are on the brink of an agreement with Germany."

The sum which M. Poincare mentions as his final demand—twenty-six billion marks—is far inferior to that which Germany herself used originally to mention. The only thing that is needed is the collaboration of England and America."

The lecturer pleaded that all men of good will detach themselves from preconceived ideas and irritating visions and endeavor to see realities. "It becomes evident," he continued, "that the financial situation of Germany makes any hope of immediate payment a fallacy."

German imperialism does not menace Russia, in the opinion of Boris Bakmeteff, former Russian ambassador to the United States, expressed at a round table conference today. Relations are developing normally and although there is a certain amount of peaceful penetration of Russia by Germany it will not constitute a danger of German control, he said, at least as long as there is no revival of the German imperialistic system.

NEW REALTY BUREAU SYSTEM IS SUCCESS

Increasing popularity of the multiple listing bureau, the new residential sales system inaugurated by the Atlanta Real Estate board, was reported Tuesday by member agents. Since the multiple listing bureau began to function two months ago, 40 sales have been made through the system, it was stated at the real estate board office at 311 Flatiron building. Membership is held in the bureau by 22 leading real estate agents. When a property owner lists a home or lot with one of the member agents for sale the property is automatically listed with the other 21 members, thus giving the owner the services of 22 sales organizations.

At present over 300 homes and lots are listed with agents participating in the bureau. The listings are available at the office of Miss Mary Bradford, secretary of the real estate board, or from the member agents. The plan is said to be in operation in more than 100 American cities.

GLEASON ARRESTED ON LARCENY COUNT

Arrest of Lem Gleason, alias J. H. Gray, alleged confederate in the Woodward, who is wanted here for swindling operations, was reported to local authorities Tuesday from Los Angeles, Cal.

Gleason was arrested in the California city on a state charge of larceny after trust and also a federal charge of violating the postal laws. As a result of the alleged swindling of Noah L. Davis, of Clarksville, Ind., out of $5,000. He will be returned to Atlanta at once for prosecution, it was stated.

THE REAL QUESTION.

The legislature is about to adjourn without taking any action on the much discussed question of evolution—so much better for the legislature, for this is a thing with which a legislature should have nothing to do.

The fact that this general assembly is about to adjourn leaving this middle measure on the table is to its credit.

Evolution is offered as a theory rather than as a proved fact. We may take it or leave it as we choose. It does not teach that man is descended from monkey, nor does it teach that man has descended from monkey, which would be more charitable. It does teach that man's body is more complex than that of other animals, that it has developed from the lowest to the highest.

Religion is something that every man is entitled to work out for himself. One man is able to reconcile evolution with the teachings of the Bible—he believes that somewhere along the way a soul was breathed into an animal body and man became a living spirit; another may believe the first account of creation in the Bible, or the second—or both; another may believe that Isaiah was written by one man—or by three; and still another may believe that the whale swallowed Jonah—or he may see in the story a stupendous allegory, told in all the imagery of the East.

One thing is certain—a man can not be a better citizen nor a better Christian through an act of the legislature that might seek to prevent his becoming acquainted with the theory of evolution. To the thinking man, golden streets and a diet of milk and honey are not the appointments of Heaven. He yearns for something more satisfying—and ignorance of the theory of evolution or of any other theory will not help to satisfy that longing.

The milk and honey Christian is not to be compared with the Christian who faces the problems of the world—and conquers them.

Religion, evolution, faith—these things are ours to work with as we will. It is not for legislatures to tell us what we must or must not believe—nor need we fear that college professors will make atheists of the youth of the land. College professors were once young, and like all of us, have had their battles to fight. They realize only too well that man speaks "Each in His Own Tongue."

"A fire-mist and a planet,
A crystal and a cell,
A jelly-fish and a saurian,
And the caves where the cavemen dwelt;

Then a sense of law and beauty,
And a face turned from the cloud—
Some call it Evolution,
And others call it God."

The argument over evolution is both useless and stupid.

The real question is not "Where did we come from?" but "What are we?" Are we brutes now—or men? And how shall we live—like brutes or like men?

BIG BETHEL'S APPEAL.

The members of Big Bethel church, which was before its recent destruction by fire one of the largest edifices in the south, with perhaps the largest membership of any colored church in America, are in the midst of an intensive campaign this week to raise in Atlanta $50,000 required to complete the rebuilding.

This is a most worthy cause and it goes without saying that the white people of Atlanta and Georgia will contribute most liberally.

Big Bethel has been a factor for good in this community. Powerful in its influence, that influence has always been directed to the proper racial relationships, and to the making of the negro a good workman, a good citizen and a trustworthy individual in whatever worthwhile endeavor undertaken.

Big Bethel church is a historical landmark for Atlanta, and of the south. Organized during the days of slavery, it has taken an active part in every forward movement for the development of this city. Since the fire most of its activities had to cease for lack of rooming facilities; even immediate church services were greatly handicapped.

It was completed after thirty years of labor on the part of Big Bethel officers and congregation, involving the work of eight pastors, in October, 1922, under the leadership and direction of its present pastor, Dr. R. H. Singleton, who has served as pastor for seven years. The church had a seating capacity of approximately 4,500.

A fire of unknown origin on February 16 completely destroyed the church, save for the stone walls. The faith of the pastor in the appreciation of the citizenry of the services Bethel has rendered in the whole community stimulated him to launch a campaign to raise $50,000 with the inadequate insurance with which to rebuild. The citizenry of Atlanta, white and colored, has been unanimous in its expression of commendation at the place that Big Bethel occupied in the city's civic and religious life, and many have been generous in their financial contribution.

The Presidential Time.
Colonel John E. Finch, "The Richmond Philosopher" of the Greensboro Herald-Journal, has this paragraph of "Life in the Old Land Still":

"Before many more moons the Georgia apple wagons will be coming around. They say the apple crop is fine this year. This is good news for the man that grows apples. It looks like the Lord provides a way for all sections of Georgia to have some money crop coming in at all seasons of the year. Have faith, and the Lord will provide."

"Lord," said the old deacon, "the winter don't freeze us, and the summer don't melt us. Ain't we tough!"

While on the Way.

While on our earthly pilgrimage,
Though short it be or long,
Let us meet trouble with a smile,
Misfortune with a song;
Sometimes the road is rough and dark,
We struggle with weary feet
Along the way, but after all,
We feel that life is sweet.

Some gladness out of sadness comes,
When we remember, too,
How oft we see life's darkest sky
Change into shining blue;
The heart that cheerful is plods on,
To where the life road ends,
With us go Faith, Hope and Love,
Our trusted guides and friends.

A smile—the sunshine of the heart—
Dispels life's misty care;
Who bravely sings a cheerful song,
Can overcome despair;
Meet troubles with a smile, and oh!
Whatever may befall,
Sing in your soul some cheerful song,
Life sweet is after all.

TODAY'S SAFETY TALK

ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES CAUSE FIRES.

Electric irons left on ironing boards with the current turned on have caused a large number of fires in recent years, according to a recent government report.

Turned off should be provided for irons and the current should be finished when the ironing is finished.

Electric coffee percolators, chafing dishes and other utensils, when boiling liquids become overheated and may cause fires if left connected after the liquid has been emptied or boiled away.

Many of these utensils consume as much current as the electric light bulbs in the house, so it is in the interests of economy and safety to keep them turned off when not in use.

Since these appliances are handled with the current turned on, only reliable apparatus with all current-carrying parts properly insulated should be used to avoid accidental shocks. With a good contact even 110 volts may cause serious results.

Reduce County Tax Rates at Once

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN

The enactment by the assembly of the 3-cent a gallon tax on gasoline ought to demand immediate county rate ad valorem reductions in every county in Georgia.

There is where the shoe pinches the farmer, as everybody knows it. County, municipal and local school rates combined run up to 30, 40, 50 and even as high as 60 mills in some counties.

The state ad valorem rate is very wisely limited to 5 mills.

I think the uniform property rate is unfair and unjust, whether it is 2 mills or 5 because it taxes money and securities at par valuations at the same rate it taxes some other property assessed at perhaps 25 per cent of par, and so on.

There is nothing fair about it, and that is why I have labored so ardently and consistently for the writing of a state tax system in the state's constitution that will, first, classify all properties and assess different rates on all classes on an equitable basis of valuations as returned, the rate not to be over three mills inasmuch of five cents now, running down to perhaps one-half of one mill; and second, a net graduated income tax not to exceed 3 per cent maximum on the net income.

And that is not all—
With the facts before the legislators if this assembly, within the few hours left to learn, instead of the rates in keeping with the revenues that will soon pour into the counties from the 1-cent allocation from the gas tax.

Will they do it?
Will this assembly show now that it really has the burdens of the country people at heart?

Will we see it?
The 3-cent gasoline tax allocates?

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, August 14.—There are all sorts of ways to make a living along Broadway. Consider for a moment the vaudeville "gag" and "extra line" men. They provide jokes and extra lines for the two-day artists.

Some are able to make as much as $1,000 a week, but the average is around $500. They are left in providing new business, lines and quips after seeing an act.

Jean Haver, who left Broadway for Hollywood, is said to receive $100,000 a week for her part in the new situation for screen players. Haver was an indifferent screen writer who loafed about the Friars until he discovered his ability to fashion the funny monologues.

Two other conspicuous examples of "gag men" are Tommy Gray and James Madison. They have their own cars and summer in Europe. The variety actor's success depends largely upon the pseudo-spontaneity of the "wild crack"—a term, by the way, coined by a "gag" man.

Tommy Gray went into the "Palace" one Monday afternoon with pad and pencil, and after waiting for a while he picked up $1,000 among the artists by furnishing them extra lines.

As a rule, however, the "gag men" are not in the money. They are a miscellaneous group of men, some of them being lines for the Follies. He is retained exclusively by Ziegfeld.

Best Williams was one of the few monologuists whose lines were almost never used. He was a "gag" man and then he accepted "extra bits" from Haver.

Speaking of "gags," a new type of telephone joker has popped up to annoy New York and has become such a pest the operating company has have made himself. No mention of the world court was made but the foregoing is assured to cover this.

Coolidge desires all cabinet members to remain. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is in Europe but Coolidge has no expectation that he will want to resign. Other members have signified their willingness to remain.

Extra Congress Session.
There is nothing now that seems to require extra session. No emergency measures may arise, but unless something unexpected happens that demands immediate action Congress will have no meeting before the regular December session.

Agriculture.
The president is receiving telegrams and communications from many people regarding the distressing condition of the farmers. The secretary of agriculture is studying every suggestion for relief. The president realizes the situation confronting the farmers and sympathizes with them. The only legislation now in session has been suggested that would seem to warrant a special session.

Coal.
The coal commission is trying to mediate between the two parties. The coal strike has been in progress for some time. The commission is trying to find a way to settle the dispute.

Immigration.
The importance of selecting immigrants so that only those with the proper background and ability to make good American citizens will be admitted. The only legislation now in session has been suggested that would seem to warrant a special session.

Mexico.
The president is not yet fully advised of the situation but understands that an agreement has been signed or is about to be signed between the American and Mexican commissioners at Mexico City.

Trips.
The president is not yet entirely familiar with the routine duties of his office and feels that he should remain at Washington where he will be near the various offices of the government and available to visitors.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

TOOTH FOOD.

In the light of modern research in human nutrition, one is constrained to think of certain kinds of food as "tooth food." At any rate, the experts in nutrition indicate that faulty development of the teeth in infants and older children, decay and caries are associated with certain deficiencies in the diet.

Teeth consist almost wholly of lime (calcium) phosphate. The diet of the expectant mother, of the nursing mother, of the infant at the breast and the child a few years old, is likely to be deficient in this very element—calcium or lime. Children 6 to 14 years of age require three or four times as much calcium in proportion to their weight as is required by adults, for the children are manufacturing teeth and bone which adults have only to keep in repair.

Let me quote Professor E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins university. Touching this question, he says ("The Newer Knowledge of Nutrition," the Macmillan company, New York, N. Y.):

"The development during very early life of a sound set of teeth is the most important factor in preventive dentistry. This is not so much dependent on the softness or hardness of the food, in infancy and in very early childhood, as it is on the composition of the diet. Calcium and phosphorus, however, an important measure for insuring the development of the tissues immediately surrounding the roots, and for developing the teeth."

McCullum and I, you see, almost always agree. At any rate, in this case McCullum does. Let us endeavor to learn, instead of the rates in keeping with the revenues that will soon pour into the counties from the 1-cent allocation from the gas tax.

Q.—Have any of the vice presidents died while in office?
A.—Yes, seven: George Clinton, serving with James Madison; Elbridge Gerry, serving in Madison's second term; William B. King, serving with Franklin Pierce; Henry Wilson, serving in U. S. Grant's second term; Thomas A. Hendricks, serving with Grover Cleveland, first term; Garrett A. Hobart, serving with William McKinley, first term; James S. Sherman, serving with William H. Taft.

Q.—How much do insects and diseases damage the forests of the country each year?
A.—The estimate of the department of agriculture is that the annual damages amount to $130,000,000.

Q.—When and how was Christianity introduced into Norway?
A.—Its introduction was the result of the intercourse which the Norwegians had with the more civilized parts of Europe, and was gradually effected in the hundred years that followed the death of Harald Haarfager. Haakon, the good son of Harald Haarfager, attempted in vain to establish it, but the result was finally effected by Olaf Trygvasson (985-1000), and Olaf, the saint, who died in 1030. They were northern missionaries who bore the cross in one hand and the sword in the other.

Q.—How does the moon compare in size with the earth?
A.—The surface of the moon is about one-fourth (1/4) of the 14,000 square miles of that of the earth.

Q.—How can one re-size a rug that has lost its stiffness?
A.—The rug should be stretched tight and tacked at frequent intervals face down on a floor, where it can remain undisturbed. Then sprinkle it generously with a solution made by dissolving 1-4 pound of flake glue in 1-2 gallon of water in a double boiler, or a container surrounded by hot water. The rug should be allowed to dry for at least 24 hours; if it is light weight, care should be taken not to put on so much glue that it will penetrate to the right side.

Q.—What is quicksand?
A.—A loose sand into which solid bodies readily sink. Quicksands are composed of very small rounded particles which, when disturbed, do not pack together, and when moistened, behave like a fluid. They are especially common in glacial deposits, and are encountered almost anywhere within the region invaded by the continental ice sheet. Any heavy object placed upon quicksand is rapidly swallowed up, leaving no trace behind.

Q.—Of what kinds of wood are the backs and head of a violin made?
A.—Most frequently of maple or sycamore, but occasionally of beech and birch.

Q.—What changes were made in the frontier of Italy after the world war?
A.—The changes were made by the re-arrangement of the Austrian-Italian boundaries. Italy obtained much new territory which formerly belonged to Austria, including the following: Trentino, Istria, Trieste, Gorz, Gradisca, Corinthia, Carinola, with a combined area of 7,250 square miles.

Q.—Where were the presidents buried?

Q.—What does the term Scandinavia include?
A.—This is a collective term for the three kingdoms of Norway, Sweden and Denmark (including Iceland). When the word Scandinavia introduced into Germany?

Q.—The history of Germany is said to begin with the year 843, when, by the treaty of Verdun, the empire of Charles the Great was divided among his sons. This monarch had adopted Christianity and, therefore, Germany was a so-called Christian state from its beginning.

Q.—What is a good formula for water-proof glue?
A.—A solution of potassium bichromate in water, with a little glue, will make a good water-proof glue. The amount of bichromate should be about one-fifth of the weight of the glue. This glue quickly becomes insoluble in water and is not so strong and more slowly in diffuse light or in the dark. Small lots should be prepared as needed from time to time.

Q.—Under authority of the so-called Weeks law, passed in 1914, the forest service of the department of agriculture has purchased about 2,000,000 acres of forest land since the law became effective. States and municipalities have purchased about 8,000,000 acres since 1911. The subject of reforestation is well covered in a new report published by the department of agriculture entitled "Timber: A Guide to the Forest Service." It will be sent free upon request to that department.

Q.—What is incorrect about the sentence, "Thanking you for your order, we beg to remain," at the close of a letter?
A.—There is nothing grammatically wrong with the sentence, but such stereotyped expressions should be avoided. It is unnecessary to "beg to remain." "Very truly yours," is a better form.

Lovely Sally Shingles, Titian-haired beauty of Rabun Gap, is no figure of the imagination of Arthur Codrington. So much is certain from the contribution which Mr. Codrington sends in today. Nay, further, he intimates that when Rabun's fairest daughter, which he believes Sally to be, comes to pay her proposed visit to Eddie, he will be hanging around the corner of Forsyth and Alabama streets and head her off. But this beautiful girl, who is a native of Rabun, has a will of her own, if we can read between the lines, and Eddie has no fears.

It's not strange that from Texas, the "Lone Star" state,

When she lays to me "Sally from Rabun Gap!"
Who's a sally? our Eddie for her pop.
Indeed, it's a sally of the poet.
For a chance to meet his Sally mite—
Such "ninety pounds" and "strawberry hair!"
With my "Rosette" would make some pair.
I know that was a Solomon was and Jesse, but not that he'd grown with the fair so popular;
A Sella would come for two hundred miles To back in the moonlight of his smiles.
Perchance some "Calpho" astride his "Balaam!"
"Panned" this sweet hour for Haroun's harem,
But I think when he taps our Waste Basket "asp,"
We will murder his Eddie near Rabun Gap!

Atlanta Woman Is Declared Trade Mark Contest Winner

An Atlanta woman, Mrs. M. C. Jackson, has been declared winner of seventh place and $1,000 in the National Slogan and Trade Mark Contest which was conducted by The Constitution and 72 other daily newspapers, according to announcement reaching Atlanta Tuesday. The announcement came accompanied by the check to Mrs. Jackson covering the amount of the award.

The National Slogan and Trade Mark campaign, originated and promoted by the Gotham Newspaper Service corporation, Gotham National Bank building, New York city, was conducted in The Atlanta Constitution and simultaneously in 72 other daily papers covering the United States from coast to coast, the first announcement appearing April 16 in all of the daily papers, and ending May 18. On Monday, June 4, the announcement was made in The Constitution of 12 local winners.

The prize winning answers of the various papers were forwarded to the Gotham Newspaper Service corporation, New York city, to be examined by the national judges for national prizes.

The judges who made the national awards are well known. They are Louis Wiley, business manager of The New York Times; John Sullivan, secretary and treasurer of the Association of National Advertisers; and F. K. Houston, vice president of the Chemical National bank, of New York.

These three men examined closely the prize winners from each local contest who had been duly qualified to enter the national contest by their compliance with the published rules and regulations. After checking their answers, the judges made the awards. Checks were mailed to all winners in care of the newspapers to whom they submitted their answers by the Gotham Newspaper Service corporation, as soon as it had received the list of lucky contestants from the committee of judges.

Mrs. Jackson wins. Mrs. M. C. Jackson, Ansley hotel, Atlanta, Ga., was awarded seventh prize, which entitled her to $1,000. Check for this amount was mailed to her through The Atlanta Constitution on August 8.

Mrs. Jackson won first prize in The Atlanta Constitution, as was announced on June 4th, the first prize being $400.00.

Following is the award of the judges: "Gotham Newspaper Service Corp., New York City."

"Gentlemen: We, the national judges of the National Slogan and Trade Mark campaign, after carefully examining and checking the qualified local prize winning answers sent to you by the various newspapers that conducted the campaign, have decided that the answers of the persons listed below as the national prize winners. ROOM BOAT SEIZURE UPHELD BY COURT

New York, August 14.—Seizure of alien craft hovering about the three-mile limit, surreptitiously to land liquor cargoes, either by themselves or in cooperation with small rum runners, was upheld today by Federal Judge Woodruff in Brooklyn.

Judge Woodruff who usually sits in Omaha, directed a jury to return a $20,000 verdict in favor of the government against the Detroit Fidelity and Surety company in connection with the seizure of the British vessel Marion Mosher, on July 27, 1922.

The Mosher was off Fire Island near the three-mile limit boldly landing from a small boat. It was alleged, when she was captured. On being released, it was charged she continued business at other points along the coast.

In his decision, Judge Woodruff said: "When a British vessel hovers around the American coast, although three miles from shore, with the intent to violate the laws, and is caught in the act of smuggling or attempting to smuggle intoxicating liquors and it is shown that it is having contact with the shore, its seizure by the foreign registry and though not inside the three-mile limit, is justified."

Released on Bond. The Mosher was released in bonds furnished by the Detroit Fidelity & Surety company—$5,000 on the ship and $15,000 on its cargo. The condition was imposed that the vessel should proceed to St. John, N. B., and there be kept under guard by the ship's movements and reported that she made several stops and discharged liquor. The bonds then were declared forfeited and this forfeiture today was sustained.

Supreme Court May Rule. Washington, August 14.—The federal court decision returned today in Brooklyn, holding that foreign craft hovering about the three-mile limit to land rum cargoes are liable to seizure, may lead eventually to a ruling by the supreme court as to whether the old statute known as the "hovering act" may properly be invoked in the enforcement of prohibition.

Details of the Brooklyn case are not known to officials here, but it is considered entirely possible that it may furnish a vehicle for carrying to the highest court a question, the answer to which has been more or less undetermined in the minds of the prohibition authorities.

The hovering act which was placed on statute books many years before the advent of prohibition, was aimed primarily at merchandise smugglers. By it, the United States assumed a "customs jurisdiction" extending to 12 miles from shore. It provided that vessels found within that limit and carrying any cargo except what properly listed on their manifests could be seized. Only in exceptional cases, however, has this jurisdiction been exercised and the authority to make such seizures has been disputed abroad.

It is assumed that the principle involved in the hovering act guided the Brooklyn court in its findings, as officials here find it difficult to understand how such a decision could have been based on the provisions of the eighteenth amendment of the Volstead act. The supreme court recently held that so far as the prohibition legislation itself was concerned, it was the intent to apply prohibition within the three-mile limit only.

23 PERSONS KILLED WHEN AUTO COACH RUNS INTO RAVINE

Lourdes, France, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Twenty-three persons were killed and seven were probably fatally injured yesterday when a motor coach filled with excursionists plunged down a 250-foot ravine in the Pyrenees mountains near Saint Sauveur.

The motor driver, in attempting to avoid striking a woman who stepped from the bushes, swerved his machine and the coach overturned crashing to the bottom of the ravine.

The woman, who was the indirect cause of the accident, ran screaming to the nearest village, gave the alarm and fainted. A rescue party extricated the bodies. All were terribly mutilated and it was impossible to identify any of them.

Toulouz, France, August 14.—All the victims of the automobile accident near Saint Sauveur were Hollanders. The party was on a pilgrimage to the Lourdes shrine.

ASSISTANT CHIEF OF U. S. ARMY AIR SERVICE TO MARRY

Detroit, Mich., August 14.—Announcement of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Trumbull Miller, Detroit society girl, to Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the United States air service, was made here today by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney T. Miller, parents of Miss Miller.

The engagement is the culmination of an aviation and hunt club romance. General Mitchell and Miss Miller met during the national air races at Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, last year. Each is an expert rider and during the summer had taken a prominent part in fashionable hunt club functions here.

WASHINGTON ELM DEAD Historic Tree at Cambridge May Be Cut Down.

Cambridge, Mass., August 14.—The Washington elm is dead. The official demise of the famed tree beneath which Washington took command of the continental army, was announced yesterday by Dr. C. S. Sargent, director of the Arnold Arboretum of Harvard university, in a letter to Mayor Edward W. Quinn, of Cambridge.

All signs of life have now gone from the Washington elm. Dr. Sargent wrote, "And there is no longer any chance of keeping it alive until the autumn. So far as I am concerned it can be cut down at any time."

Senate Adopts Majority Report in Highway Probe

Without a dissenting vote, the senate Tuesday afternoon adopted the report of the joint commission headed by Senator Stephen Pace, of the thirteenth district, which completely overruled the state highway department of charges preferred by Representative McMichael, of Marion.

The report of the commission was accompanied by a minority report submitted by Mr. McMichael, but this measure was rejected when it was moved by Senator Lankford, at the conclusion of the reading of both reports, that the majority report be adopted.

REICHSTAG GIVES CONFIDENCE VOTE

Continued from First Page. territory and on the day this happens all forces will work to end the intolerable paralysis of the main artery of German economy.

"If the free and unrestricted administration of the Ruhr is assured; if the situation in the Rhineland again is such as is guaranteed by international treaties; if every improvement in the economic life of the Rhineland is restored to liberty; then after a breathing spell has been granted us, we shall be able, by exerting the whole economic force of the country, to furnish means for settlement of the reparations question, provided the burdens imposed upon us permit of the existence of our economic life and the further development of our nation. The consolidation of our political and economic life is a preliminary condition for resumption of the reparations deliveries which will be discontinued, owing to economic derangement caused by the invasion of the Ruhr."

Twelve Are Killed. Aix-la-Chapelle, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Twelve persons were killed and more than 80 were wounded here last night when crowds attempted to storm the police headquarters and rescue prisoners taken during the day when the police broke up a food shortage demonstration.

All the victims were German civilians. In yesterday's demonstration four Germans were killed and forty wounded.

The crowd was composed for the most part of idle workers of the regular siege to the headquarters and refused to heed the police warnings to disperse.

After throwing hand grenades into the crowd and firing several volleys the security police emerged and charged the mob with sabres and revolvers. Mounted police are patrolling the city. The Belgian troops did not interfere.

Riots at Hamburg. London, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Hamburg was the scene of further rioting today with many killed or wounded, according to a Central News dispatch from Berlin. Communists have gained the upper hand at Wilhelmshaven near Hamburg, the dispatch adds, disarming the militia and taking control of the town.

Strike Called Off. Berlin, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The general strike in Berlin was called off by the communists this morning, all the transportation lines reopening.

Situation Improved. Berlin, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The industrial situation in Berlin showed improvement today and there were reports of betterment in conditions from other parts of Germany, although disorders were still in progress in many districts.

Erect Barriades. Berlin, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Communists in the east end of Berlin tried to erect barriades at noon today to prevent the passage of tram cars. They smashed car windows and assaulted the drivers. The police fired on the rioters, who returned the fire. Four persons were injured before order finally was restored.

Despite strenuous efforts by the communists here in Berlin, the collapse of the general strike movement was regarded as imminent. The gas works were still idle but operations have been resumed at a number of the electric power stations. The street cars and underground railways were running and traffic on the state railways was almost normal.

Improvement was also noticed among the private industrial establishments, several works resuming operations.

The situation at Stettin has become worse. The dock employees went on strike and numbers of shops were plundered, especially butchers and bakers.

The strike of the Hamburg and Bremen pilots which has been tying up North sea traffic at these ports, has ended.

New Cabinet. Berlin, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The new German cabinet has been constructed wholly along party lines and with respect to individual strength it looked upon as weaker than the so-called non-

FARMERS ARE WARNED AGAINST ARMY WORM

A statement issued Tuesday by Ira Williams, state entomologist, carries a warning to farmers of Georgia to take special precautions against the invasion of the army worm, the latest menace to Georgia staple crop which recently put in its appearance in the county police department, in view of the boll weevil and energetic steps to check the invasion of the army worm was urged.

The statement in full is as follows: "This is the most critical period of the year, especially in north Georgia. This crop can be saved and a full crop made if the farmers will poison and continue to poison as directed. This crop is late and should be dusted late."

If the weather is dry, dust the cotton good so that the weevil will not be able to multiply rapidly when the rains begin. Use a good duster, and if the infestation is heavy dust every three or four days until the weevil is under control.

The state board has a small amount of arsenite which can be purchased, but the indications are that it will not be on hand long. If you have not a sufficient amount to dust during the season, place your order at once.

"The least worm, sometimes called the caterpillar or army worm, has made its appearance in Georgia and indications are that much damage will be done by this pest. Dusting with calcium arsenite is one of the best remedies. Fields dusted for the boll weevil will be free from invasion by the least worm and all fields should be dusted if it appears in this section."

"The supplies of calcium arsenite in this state probably will not be great. It should not be shipped out of the state. Any person having any for sale is requested to communicate with the state board of entomology."

Appeal by Women. Berlin, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—"We German women appeal to the president of the United States to help us avert the ignominy and disgrace which threatens us," is the message addressed to President Coolidge by Frau Catherine von Cheim, one of the leading women deputies in the reichstag.

The appeal is made in behalf of the wives of evicted railway workers in the Treves district who are forced to remain behind. The French commander, the appeal points out, has ordered the billeting of colored troops in the homes of the evicted railway-men.

You Can't Starve and Beat Your Horse ~

~ and Have Him Haul the Load

You can always tell what kind of a farmer a man is by the condition of his stock.

If his horses are lanky and lean, ill-fed and poorly cared for, you can set it down that he is not prosperous. If his wagons, machines and other farm implements are not kept in good condition, you know right away that he is not a successful farmer.

Every good farmer knows that it is the best policy to feed his stock well and repair his implements and take care of them. Then he will get the most service out of them and in the end make more money.

The railroads mean a great deal to the farmer, because they haul his produce to market and bring back to him the necessities and comforts of life. But the farmer must appreciate that a railroad cannot be built and maintained without money. Neither can it be run at a loss.

To Get Prompt Freight Service You Must Let The Railroads Earn Enough To Pay Expenses

Let the railroads earn rates high enough to pay expenses, to keep their equipment in good condition and to enable them to provide needed improvements. It will be cheaper for you in the end.

You cannot cut down freight rates and then expect the railroads to have all the freight cars you need, when you need them; and you cannot expect them to run their trains promptly when their tracks and cars are in bad shape.

You cannot starve a railroad, any more than you can starve a horse, and get service.

FARM CONFERENCE ASKED BY TEXAS

Austin, Texas, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—A conference of governors, state marketing and agricultural officials to consider plans for uniform grading of farm products, uniform systems of marketing agricultural crops and uniform warehouse and planning laws is proposed in a letter addressed by Charles E. Baughman, Texas commissioner of markets and warehouses to governors and state officials of southern states, made public here today.

The Texas commissioner also advocates uniform legislation in southern states for financing the farmer, similar to the rural credits congressional act and laws which have been enacted in some states.

No specific time was set for the conference, Baughman stating details would be arranged later if the plan meets with approval from other states.

Saunders Making Plans To Control Parent Company

Memphis, Tenn., August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Clarence Saunders, who yesterday retired from the presidency of Piggly Wiggly stores, Inc., after five months of financial storm, which developed differences between the executive and members of a "board" which backed his activities with the company's stock in Wall street, today initiated his campaign to retain leadership in the Piggly Wiggly corporation, the parent company which controls the patents and collects the royalties from the stores company.

In letters to all stockholders in the parent company, Mr. Saunders declared that a definite move had already been begun by hostile interests to wrest the presidency of Piggly Wiggly, which event, he said, the corporation "will be wrecked."

"To meet this 'definite move' the president of Piggly Wiggly corporation proposed that the stockholders surrender to him personally one-half of their holdings to be held in trust in a local bank. With this stock as collateral, Mr. Saunders proposed to underwrite notes in the sum of a million and a half, with which funds he would be able to liquidate a debt of one million dollars now held against the corporation by the new management of the stores company."

Collateral held on this loan is 50,000 shares of class "B" stock in Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc. Default of payment of this loan has already been declared by the American Trust company, of Nashville, acting as trustee. The passing of this block of stock into the hands of the new management of the stores company would give them a powerful hold on the parent corporation.

McLeod Defends Sending Troops To Charleston

Columbia, S. C., August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Challenging the accuracy of various statements in the Logan letter, Governor Thomas G. McLeod today made public his reply to the written protest of W. Turner Logan, congressman from the first South Carolina district and chairman of the Charleston city democratic executive committee, against the governor's course in mobilizing state troops in connection with last Tuesday's primary in which John F. Green, Logan's law partner, was defeated for renomination for mayor of Charleston by Thomas P. Stoner.

After referring to reports he had received indicating that "there was imminent danger of serious trouble, riot, breach of the peace and the probable loss of life and bloodshed," the governor stated that "there was no doubt in my mind, therefore, to order out the militia and to take such steps as would prevent trouble and thereby have an election under such protection that there might be a free and untrammelled expression of the voice of the people."

"It is unnecessary to say to you that in doing this I was not actuated by partisan motives," the letter continued. "According to your statement, the Logan letter was the chairman of the democratic committee of Charleston. It would be impossible for you to appreciate or accept such a statement. To the general public, however, I feel safe in giving my assurance that my act was for the public good and for the preservation of the peace and dignity of the state."

Former Heads Of Bucketshop Firm Indicted

New York, August 14.—Edward M. Fuller and Willie F. McGee, partners in the bankrupt stock bucketting house of E. M. Fuller and company, were indicted with their former lawyers, William J. Fallon, and Eugene F. McGee by a federal grand jury today for conspiracy to conceal records and assets of the firm, which failed for nearly $5,000,000.

Additional indictments naming alleged "higher ups" in a supposed widespread bucketting ring, were promised.

The lawyers surrendered, entered pleas of not guilty, and were held in $5,000 bail. Fallon being freed under a $5,000 bail bond posted in connection with an indictment for bribing a juror. McGee was given until tomorrow morning to provide bail. Fuller and his partner, William F. McGee, were not arraigned today. Being already in federal custody for contempt of court it was said their arraignment would be deferred until a more convenient time.

At least three persons, all of whom are noted or notorious throughout the country, are expected to figure in the forthcoming indictments.

Mrs. Lowry Wills $350,000 To Oglethorpe and Tech

Lowry School of Banking at Oglethorpe and Scholarship Funds Provided by Banker's Widow.

A bequest of approximately $275,000 to Oglethorpe university by the late Mrs. Emma Markham Lowry was announced to the board of founders of the university on Tuesday afternoon by J. Henry Porter, executor of Mrs. Lowry's estate. This is said to be the largest gift ever made by a woman to any southern educational institution.

Of this amount $200,000 is for the establishment of "The Robert J. and Emma Markham Lowry School of Banking, Business Administration and Commerce." The remainder of Mrs. Lowry's gift is to become a perpetual fund, dedicated to the "purpose of educating worthy boys who desire an education and are unable to secure the same for lack of funds."

Under the will of Mr. Lowry, life annuities in favor of his sisters were created which necessitated the setting apart of approximately $100,000. Upon the termination of the annuities the amount so set aside will revert to the estate and ultimately pass under the terms of Mrs. Lowry's will to the college endowments and scholarship funds.

"At the present time there will probably be no cash available for the scholarship funds," Attorney Porter stated, "but one can see what the ultimate result will be."

Mrs. Lowry's will was quoted as follows: "It is my desire that this scholarship fund be used preferably, though not necessarily exclusively, for the benefit of boys from north Georgia who are worthy but unable financially to obtain an education."

"The requirements controlling these scholarships . . . shall be determined by my executor after conference with the authorities of said schools."

From the scholarship funds advances will be made students in the nature of loans at the rate of 4 per cent per annum.

The will provided that in event of the death of Attorney J. H. Porter, the Lowry Bank and Trust Company of Georgia is to act as executor.

Legacies of $10,000 each were left to M. O. Markham, her nephew; W. P. Nicholson, Jr., and J. H. Porter. Requests of $5,000 each were left to Caroline Nicholson and Lowry Nicholson. To the four surviving sisters of Colonel Lowry she left $10,000 each. Similar amounts were left to Robert Lowry Meador and Robert Lowry Freeman, her nephews and namesake.

Each of the following nephews and nieces of the late Mrs. Lowry:

pieces were bequeathed $500: Mrs. Julia Clark Cole, Mrs. Julia Porter Block, Mrs. Alice May Toy, Mrs. J. H. Porter, Robert C. Clarke, T. D. Meador, William L. Meador and Porter Freeman.

Each of the following friends will receive $500: Miss J. S. Knapp, Henry Purcell, Bart Glenn, and Emma Lowry Howell Conklin. Mrs. Leo Daley receives $250. Her chauffeur, Fred Cosby, was given $1,000 and her maid, Rosa Cosby, $500.

Porter is in charge. By the terms of her will, Mrs. Lowry leaves all details of the establishment of the Lowry School of Banking and Commerce to her executor, Mr. Porter, a member of the board of founders of the university, and to the duly constituted authorities of Oglethorpe university.

In making the announcement to the board of founders, said that business has come to be recognized as a profession for which training is as necessary as it is for the so-called learned professions.

Business a Profession. Edgar Watkins, president of the board of founders, said that business has come to be recognized as a profession for which training is as necessary as it is for the so-called learned professions.

"So recent has been the recognition of the fact that business is a profession and a service," he said, "that there are practically but two colleges in America where business is taught as a science. The arts of accountancy, salesmanship, advertising, and the like, can be learned in many schools, but the fundamental science of business is taught nowhere to Atlanta than Illinois or Harvard."

Mrs. John K. Ottley, chairman of the executive committee of the women's board of the university, accepted the bequest for that body.

"This is womanhood's great hour in the educational history of the South," she said. "No other woman of our section has been vouchsafed the vision and the power to make so noble a contribution to that liberal education which was believed to be the necessity of representative government as that which has been announced to us in the bequest of Mrs. Robert J. Lowry to Oglethorpe University and to the Georgia School of Technology."

Was Life of Love. Mrs. Lowry's life was one particularly inspired by love. The gift for the school of banking and commerce which she designed as a special memorial to her distinguished husband, Colonel Robert J. Lowry, carries this significance very markedly.

"It is not the beginning of her contribution to his service as leading banker and financier, not only of this section but of the country at large, but the culmination of her life-long share in this service. During the more than fifty years in which Colonel Lowry was a leader in banking and finance in this country, she was at his side. No husband and wife ever more fully lived their lives together."

Love of Bereft Mother. "Just as love inspired the legacy to Oglethorpe university, so did it inspire the memorial scholarship fund to both Oglethorpe and Georgia Tech. The aching heart of the mother, bereft of her own, took comfort in the thought of helping other mother-sons, and in her mind shone that heavenly vision which spoke for her own son as well as for the Son of God. 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these ye have done it unto me.'"

"This is a wonderful hour for Oglethorpe," said Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of the university, "and I regard the announcement as one of the most important in the history of the school."

Oglethorpe Permanent. How Colonel Lowry had given freely of his time and money as one of the original workers interested in the reestablishment of the university some years ago was related by Dr. Jacobs. He told the members of the board of founders how Mrs. Lowry's bequest was because of her belief in the permanency of the institution, due to her abiding faith in them, as among the foremost of representative men and women of education throughout Atlanta, the state and the entire south.

"I know," he said, "that you are not going to 'break the faith.'"

COAL SUBSTITUTES PLANNED BY U. S.

Washington, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The United States government is unable to bring peace between miners and operators and a strike results in the hard-coal fields of Pennsylvania.

The guarantee was given at the white house Tuesday, when it was announced that a plan had been perfected by the government for supplying substitutes. This plan will be immediately put into effect if work is suspended in the anthracite mines.

It was also indicated at the white house that President Coolidge has no intention of taking drastic measures to bring a settlement in the anthracite fields. He has sent the coal commission to New York to find out the facts of the present controversy. After a careful study of the dispute, efforts will be made by the commission to find a basis of settlement. But if an agreement is reached, the government is fully prepared to supply the public with coal.

The plan, which has been worked out by the coal commission, provides: 1.—Use of substitutes of coke and semi-volatile bituminous for anthracite.

2.—Adequate transportation facilities for moving substitute coal from the regions where it is mined to the anthracite consumers. Transportation was really the only problem the government faced in preparing to meet the emergency. Bituminous operators, representing practically the entire industry, have assured the commission that they can furnish plenty of substitute coal to meet all needs and have offered to place all their resources at the government's disposal, even to allowing the government to fix the price of coal if necessary.

MEN ASSAULT WOMAN Feminine Hair and Clothing Baffle Police.

Two unidentified white men and a woman engaged in a sanguine struggle in front of 23 Fraser street about 9:30 o'clock Tuesday night according to reports to the police. Shrieks of the woman mingled with pistol shots and shouting of the men precipitated a hurried call to the police that a woman was being murdered.

Hushing to the scene of the reported disturbance, Call Officers Goode and McArthur, found parts of a woman's dress, pieces of feminine undergarments, hair and a brand new crisp one dollar bill. Blood spots were found on the sidewalk, but no trace of the identity of the trio was found. Police was searching for material which will match the portion of the dress found. A drag net was spread in the locality of the disturbance, and all hospitals are being closely guarded in the hope of finding the injured woman.

Silk Purse or Sow's Ear?

EVERY MAN is credited with a sufficient amount of intelligence to discriminate between a sow's ear and a silk purse.

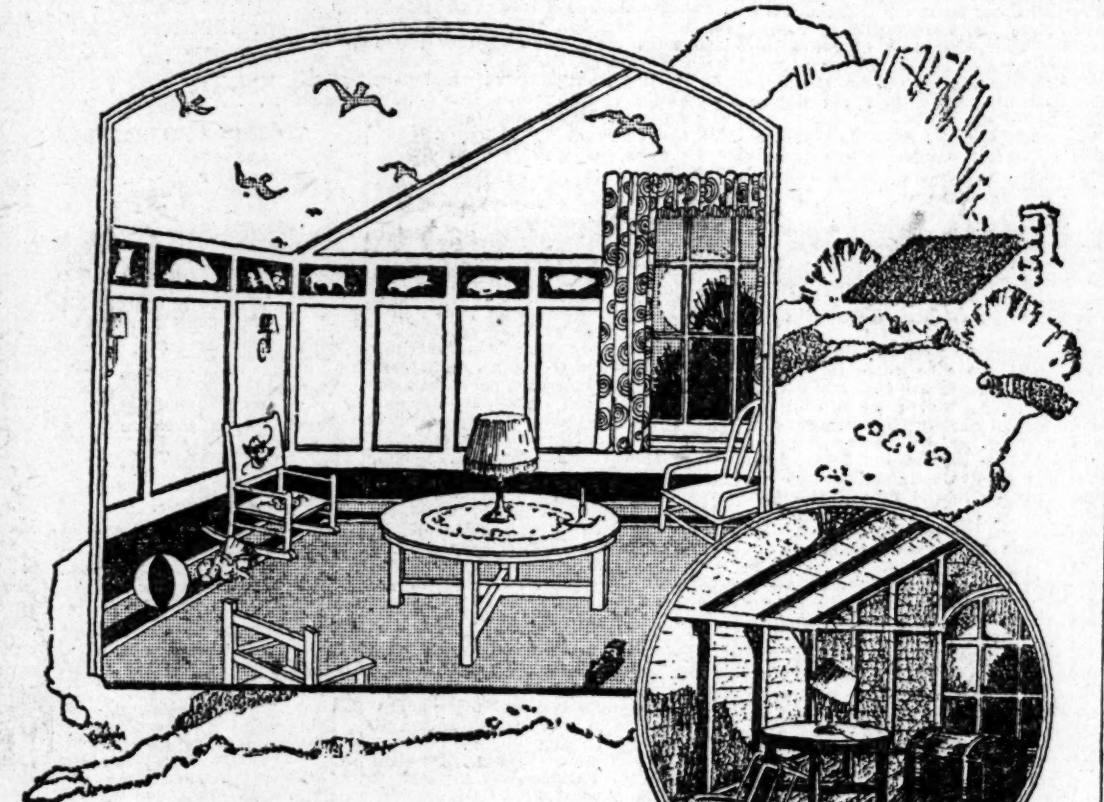

Just as great a difference becomes every day more noticeable between slovenly printing and printing that is artistically effective.

In the case of printing, the difference between coarseness and refinement proves of real importance, for the decision as to whether your printing is to be careless printing or printing that is workmanlike determines whether your message is going into the waste basket of your prospect or into his reference file.

Silk purse printing that will command your prospect's earnest attention proves surprisingly economical.

You will find that the price at Byrd's is right. Here the modern and complete mechanical equipment, improved through thirty-six years' printing experience, makes this plant capable of turning out silk purse printing with valuable economies of time, labor and money. Warner-Fleming Nuptials Solemnized at Central Church

Of much interest throughout the south was the marriage of Miss Irah Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Watson Warner, and Samuel Todd Fleming, of Archer, Fla., which was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Central Presbyterian church.

Dr. Ben B. Lacy, Jr., performed the impressive marriage ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

An artistic musical program was rendered by Mrs. W. L. Wood while the guests assembled and just before the ceremony Miss Bertha Sims sang "I Love You Truly." During the ceremony "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" was softly played. Lohengrin's wedding march announced the approach of the bridal party and Mendelssohn's was used as the recessional.

Church Decorations. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and southern smilax. The altar was banked with tall palms, which formed a lovely background for pedestals filled with white roses and gladioli.

Mrs. Hugh Brown attended her sister as matron of honor. Her gown was fashioned of yellow and silver lace over silver tissue. She wore a large picture hat of black and her flowers were white roses and lavender asters.

Miss Mary O'Donnell, niece of the groom, was bridesmaid and wore a handsome gown of orchid crepe with a large black hat. Her flowers were pink roses and lavender asters.

The brides were Hugh A. Warner and Z. R. Pettit. Little Alice Clare Warner and Jennie Lella Brown, nieces of the bride, were flower girls and wore dainty frocks of pink and blue tulle. They carried attractive baskets of vari-colored flowers. Master Roy Warner, the ring-bearer, wore a suit of white satin and carried the ring in the heart of a white rose.

Lovely Bride. The bride entered on the arm of her father and was met at the altar by the groom and J. Guy Fleming, who acted as his brother's best man. She was lovely in a traveling gown of midnight blue crepe. Her hat was a silver gray satin model. Completing her costume was a platinum fox. Her only ornament was a diamond and platinum pin, the gift of the groom.

The bride's bouquet was of white roses showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. A. W. Warner, mother of the bride, was gowned in gray Canton crepe. Her corsage was of white roses tied with lavender tulle.

Mr. Fleming and his bride left immediately after the ceremony for a short wedding trip. They will be at home after September 1 in Gainesville, Fla. The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Watson Warner. She is a graduate of the Girls' High school and by her charming personality has won a host of friends.

Mr. Fleming is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Fleming, of Archer, Fla. He is a graduate of the University of Florida and is prominently connected with the United States department of agriculture in that state.

Simple Application That Dissolves Blackheads

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those unsightly blemishes, blackheads. There is one simple, safe and sure way to get them out and that is to dissolve them. Get about two ounces of calomel powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub briskly over the blackheads for a few seconds—wash the parts and every blackhead will be gone. Pinching and squeezing out blackheads make large pores and you cannot get all of the blackheads out this way—while this simple application of calomel powder and water dissolves every particle of them and leaves the skin and pores in their natural condition.—(adv.)

HOME REMEDIES OF OUR ANCESTORS

Almost every man and woman in America can remember the botanic recipes of our mothers and grandmothers for the treatment of disease, and they were wonderfully dependable too. Every fall there were stored away in the attic thoroughwort, pennyroyal, catnip, sage, wormwood, rue, etc., for treating ills of the family during the winter months that followed. In 1873, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was first prepared from one of these botanic recipes, and the demand for it has increased to such an extent that hundreds of tons of roots and herbs are now used annually in its preparation. It has recently been proved that 98 out of every 100 women who try it have been benefited by its use, which is a marvelous record for any medicine to hold.—(adv.)

BEAUTY CHATS

By Miss K. Parker

HOT WEATHER AND HAIR.

As a general thing the hot weather months are good for the hair, if only for the reason that hats are lighter in weight and not worn so many hours every day as in winter. Nevertheless, many people are alarmed because the hair begins to fall during the hot weather. This is quite natural. The hair comes out in the spring and autumn, as well as during the spring and heat spell. There is no need to be alarmed unless too much falls.

As the scalp, like the rest of the body, perspires more freely in hot weather, it should be more frequently washed. Once a fortnight will do very well.

If there is any dandruff, a beaten egg should be rubbed into the scalp and allowed to dry. If the hair is too oily, it should be rubbed over after the shampoo with a sponge wet with a solution of half bay rum and half water.

Generally speaking, it is not advisable to use too much alcohol on the hair, for it dries it and tends to turn gray, but used as I have advised, it cannot do any harm. It will dry the hair more quickly and, being astringent, it will prevent so much hair from falling out.

If the hair seems too dry after the shampoo, and after the alcohol treatment, moisten the tips of the fingers with olive oil and massage the scalp thoroughly, using enough oil so you reach every part of the scalp. Such a massage will not make the hair greasy, but merely soft and glossy.

A good hair tonic should be used summer and winter. My favorite Pilocarpine tonic is good both for hot and cold weather. In the summer, however, less oil is needed, so the oil rubs before the shampoo may be forgotten.

The scalp should be kept as clean as possible during the summer months. If the hair tonic is rubbed on with a sponge, the wet sponge will act as a cleansing agent for both scalp and hair.

The HOUSEHOLD

Edited by Anne Rittenhouse

AT TEA TIME.

You may have heard the woman with three or four servants make this complaint that she cannot serve afternoon tea, because she is afraid of the protests of her servants. Still you know other women who do not have a servant who never fails to serve the restful cup when you call upon her in the afternoon. If you plan your equipment wisely, tea-making may be made very easy. Moreover, many a maid would be quite willing to set forth a simple tea tray any day if it meant that she might have her tea in the kitchen at the same time. For the houseworker is quite as subject to the midafternoon fog in strength as you, and usually just as sensitive to the reviving powers of tea as any one else.

But whether you make your own tea or ask your maid to do it you should have it a simple matter. If you have tea regularly, or many times a week, it is a good plan to have a special set of tea cups and other dishes set aside for it. These may be kept on a tray by themselves, and replaced immediately after they are washed, then set away in the cupboard ready to be taken down the next time.

There is difference of opinion as to the relative goodness of tea ball tea and tea made in a teapot. Those who like their tea quite bracing prefer that brewed in a pot. You cannot get much of the energizing quality from the tea leaves by merely dipping a tea ball in a cup or pouring boiling water through it. If you leave the tea ball in the cup long enough to impart any great strength your tea infusion will become cold, though the water rests on the tea leaves for five or ten minutes.

New York Lecturer Speaks At Atlanta Woman's Club

A lecture of rare interest and teaching with valuable information was given by George Worthington, of New York, at the joint luncheon of the League of Women Voters and the Atlanta Woman's club, on Tuesday, in the banquet hall of the Woman's club.

Mr. Worthington spoke on a subject, which, because of its very morbidness, is hard to approach, and yet his talk was not only deeply interesting and vital, but was in no way offensive.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, welcomed the members of the League of Women Voters in a charming manner, and introduced Mrs. Sanford Gay, president of the league, who, after a few well chosen words, in turn introduced the speaker of the occasion.

Social Hygiene.
"I wish," said Mr. Worthington, "that it would be possible for me to speak on the whole great subject of social hygiene, but as the field is too broad to permit of this, I must confine myself to a little general explanation and a few specific details of the meaning and work of social hygiene."

The speaker went on to say that the two general lines of activity in the social hygiene work are constructive and remedial. The constructive activities are mainly educational and are designed to foster the right character training from childhood, and to provide correct recreational measures. The remedial measures secure the most wholesome social environment by the elimination of the weakening and unwholesome factors so often existing.

Mr. Worthington's talk included a lucid explanation of the medical and legal means employed to repress prostitution and the evils which follow in its wake. He gave statistics which showed the valuable work being done by the Social Hygiene association and went into explanatory detail of existing conditions which should be and in many cities are being improved by the activities of social hygiene.

He quoted very aptly, during the course of his talk, a remark once made by Elizabeth Barrett Browning who said: "I don't like coarse subjects, or the coarse treatment of any subject, but I am deeply convinced that the corruption of our society requires not shut doors and windows but light and air, and it is exactly because pure and wholesome women choose to ignore vice that miserable women suffer wrong by it everywhere."

That women are no longer ignoring the subject is evidenced by the resolutions of many great national bodies of women as the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the League of Women Voters, and others. The luncheon Tuesday is an incident of the awakened spirit of the Atlanta women who realize the importance of social hygiene in their own locality.

Beautiful Luncheon.
The luncheon itself was a decided success. The beautiful banquet hall is sufficient decoration, but the tables were lovely in their perfect appointments. Garden flowers were used in attractive baskets and vases, and a color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in every detail.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, ever gracious hostess, and Mrs. Sanford Gay presided together.

Among those present were Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Gay, George Worthington, Wesley Peacock, Mrs. Rhoda Kaufman, Mrs. Louise Spalding Foster, Mrs. W. F. Melton, Mrs. J. H. Gibbs, Mrs. C. A. McGinnis, Mrs. E. M. Wallack, Mrs. A. G. Helmer, Mrs. Newton Wing, Mrs. H. J. McFadden, Miss Ruth Blair, Mrs. Elliot Chestnut, Mrs. R. L. Thurman, Mrs. Norman Sharp, Mrs. Fred Gould, Mrs. Thad Morrison, Mrs. O. H. Matthews, Mrs. Howard Sear, Mrs. Kirk Smith, Jr., Miss Lucy Eagle, Mrs. J. P. Billups, Mrs. James R. Thornton, Mrs. W. A. Her Friend's Husband by INEZ KLUMPH CHAPTER LI.

The Flower of True Friendship.
Gloria loved having her days whirl around in hands like gay-colored pin-wheels that are sold in Central park to children. She liked being awakened in the morning by the ringing of the telephone, and being invited to go somewhere before her eyes were open enough to see the scribbled entries in her engagement book. It was always a man who called; Valerie seemed to have no women friends. Sometimes, in restaurants or theaters, or when she and Gloria were shopping, women would speak to her; usually they acted as if they were on the defensive, and glanced curiously at Gloria.

Valerie often went out alone, and she never volunteered any information about her errands. Twice she had said that she was going to her modiste's, but when important messages had come for her, and Gloria had attempted to relay them, Madame Celeste had said that Mrs. Eaton had no appointment with her and had not been in. Gloria would have thought little of that, if Valerie had not been so frank about other things. She admitted that she rarely paid the market price for anything—there were dressmakers who either gave her gowns or made her remarkably low prices for them; her hats and wraps she obtained in the same way. "I'm a good advertisement, you see—people know me," she told Gloria, with just a hint of bitterness in the smile that accompanied the words. Gloria wondered how she could be a good advertisement, when she didn't know any women. One day she picked up a copy of "Town Talk" that had come in the mail, and, glancing through it, came upon a notice about "the beautiful Mrs. E., who causes so many heartbreaks to so many wives, yet just escapes breaking through the very thin ice on which she skates serenely." Valerie, coming in a few moments later and catching sight of the magazine, tore it across and threw it into the waste basket, a vivid flush burning her delicate face as she realized that Gloria saw her.

"Horrid, dirty scandal sheet, isn't it?" she exclaimed. "I'm glad I have a clear conscience! That magazine has dredged many a home. It seems to exist for the purpose of blackmailing prominent people."

Gloria had not thought until that moment that "the beautiful Mrs. E." might refer to Valerie Eaton, but Valerie's embarrassment suggested the possibility. That night when they were dining at the Ritz she realized that, as Valerie walked to their table, with her graceful, swaying walk, people turned and stared at her; several women whispered to their companions. Gloria followed her, with head held high; Valerie was such a darling—those women were jealous of the way she looked in her floating white gown, with its crystal trimmings.

The new life grew more delightful day by day. Gloria met playwrights and actresses, dined at the cool roof restaurants from which she never tired of looking over the city, danced at the roadhouse and drove home at dawn. Into the glamor and glitter of it all, Larry Gordon introduced a new note, however, and Gloria found it as attractive as the jazzier ones of the tune played by her other men friends.

"I'm a westerner," Larry told her, the first time she dined alone with him. "They were at an Italian restaurant below Washington square, where the fat proprietor and his father wife dined at an adjacent table with their numerous offspring, and one ate in the garden, with tenement buildings towering on all sides."

"I come from California," Larry went on. "And if I don't write a novel by this time next year I'm going back there. That's the one thing I want to do—write good fiction—and with this job to help me get the kind of material and training that I've got to have—well, nothing but inability can keep me from it!"

Larry didn't take her to roadhouses and roof gardens. He took her to dress rehearsals, sometimes. Gloria thought she'd never forget her first one, when a musical comedy was being put through the final grilling. The comedian walked through a spirited dance hardly lifting his feet from the floor, merely indicating to the orchestra what he wanted; the prima donna whispered her songs, and the chorus girls, limp from the heat, stumbled through their steps until the stage manager, chewing the big black cigar of tradition, marched through their ranks swearing so vehemently that Gloria covered her ears.

He took her on first nights, for which he got passes. He took her riding on the Staten Island ferry at dusk, when the salt wind sometimes blew in from the ocean, and as they stood in the bow of the clumsy boat, headed for New York, the lights of Wall street's skyscrapers blazed out against the blue twilight sky. He

We all got rid of the non-essentials during the war and either gave away or threw away all things for which

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

The Tailored Suit for Women, Notched Collar and All, Appears as a Candidate for Autumn Favor.

The tailored suit without accessories is like roast lamb without mint sauce—nourishing, substantial, useful, but lacking in piquancy. Doubtless the reason, or at least one of the contributory reasons, why the tailored suit has been in such long abeyance is because we had given up the habit of multitudinous accessories. Primarily, of course, the tailored suit went by the boards as far as women's clothes were concerned because the men tailors in France went to war. Women had not gone through the long apprenticeship needed to make a good tailor so they substituted the one-piece frock and the cape as the uniform for women.

The war had something to do with the abandonment of the separate ac-

This tailored suit of black twill gives opportunity to wear many of the fascinating accessories now in vogue. The hat and gaudy are of Chinese blue suede embroidered in gold. The vest is of white organdie.

cessory. As a matter of economy, both of time and money, women preferred not to have to bother with separate belts, collars, cuffs, jabots, neckties, needed to give the tailored suit zest.

Now the stage seems to be set for the return of the tailored suit. Time enough has elapsed for the training of the tailors to fill the places of the industrious little men who never came back to sit cross-legged on the tailor's table. And we have leisure and pin money enough for accessories.

In France, O'Rosen is supplying a very discriminating demand for straight, severe tailor-made suits, and these are invariably worn with neat organdie collars and cuffs. The collar plays an important role in tailored suits always. Comfortable but always difficult is the wearing of the tailored jacket with a roll-neck blouse. The regulation notch collar does not rest with smartness against bare skin. So the success of the conventional tailored suit—predicted for the autumn—will undoubtedly be measured by the willingness of smart women to put up with the high-collared blouse or some sort of stock. Clever heads have been intent on the question of devising these stocks that will be both smart and comfortable, and the smart shops are already showing interesting "stock-curtains."

Alpaca is a good choice for the tailored suit in warm weather; for autumn choose one of the twills. The sketch shows a twill in navy blue. The hat and gloves are both of Chinese blue suede embroidered in gold. The neck problem here is solved with an accessory vest made of organdie.

HELD TWO YEARS FOR BOARD BILL, GIRL IS RESCUED

La Grange, Ill., August 14.—(United News.)—After being held as an alleged chattel for two years in payment of a $400 board bill, eleven-year-old Margaret Melton was rescued from the farm of J. J. Smith, near here, by authorities Tuesday. She told the fearful story of having to wear boy's clothes, of being beaten with a stick when she was unable to hold up her end of the work as a farm hand and of having to sleep with the dogs. Neighbors caused an investigation of the case when they heard the girl's screams at night. Margaret was placed in charge of the farmer and his wife by her father, Lloyd Melton, an inventor, when the couple agreed to care for her for $200 a year. The father paid for two years, but has not been heard from since 1921.

Wesson Oil is so pure, clear and light in color that it would be mighty pretty in a glass bottle. Have you ever wondered why, then, we put it in a tin can? The fact is that sunlight—or daylight for that matter—gradually spoils the delicate flavor of an oil. Would you rather have a plain tin can full of the finest oil you ever tasted—and the most delicate in flavor—or a handsome bottle of oil that wasn't as good as we know how to make it? You vote for the tin can, of course. So do we.

The Lady of North Star

BY OTTWEIL BINNS

Next Week, "The Soul Scar."
By Beldon Duff

Brown! Dick Bracknell's was brown, but then so was the hair of half the Anglo-Saxon race!

Joy Gargrave went to visit friends a few miles from the home of Sir James Bracknell at Harrow Fell.

Adrian haunted her steps. He was always at hand with assistance which she did not want; and when Geoffrey Bracknell also arrived, there was something like open rivalry between them. Her hostess laughed.

"You will have a brace of proposals before the shoot is over, Joy," And it was as her friend said. On the day of a shoot, Geoffrey Bracknell walked with her across the moor towards the "butts."

"Miss Gargrave, there is something that I want to say, and to ask you."

She hastily put up a protesting hand. "Please, Mr. Bracknell, don't! Don't spoil our friendship!"

"Ah!" said the young man, "you understand what I want. It is really quite impossible."

"Yes," she answered, "it is quite impossible."

Geoffrey Bracknell whistled softly to himself. He was not a man to be easily won, but he strove to behave like a gentleman. She held out a hand impulsively.

"Geoffrey," she said, "don't let this spoil your life or our friendship. I cannot now explain what I mean, but my refusal is imperative. Some day I may be able to."

He laughed with forced lightness and walked away. Joy watched him go with pain at her heart. How like his cousin he was, and how unlike his brother!

From the butt where Geoffrey Bracknell waited, shots came at regular intervals, and Joy saw birds drop every time. Then a covey of grouse came driving with the wind straight towards her neighbors' shelter. She waited.

There was a sharp report, and a sudden cry, and the birds drove on. Another flock of birds drove down the wind, but this time there was no shot from Geoffrey's gun. A sudden fear flashed across her mind.

She ran towards the next butt, and she ran towards the next butt.

White-faced and still, with a ghastly wound in his right temple, Geoffrey Bracknell lay there dead.

A great agony surged up in her heart. Had he? But before the thought which had flashed across her mind, she completed a knew that it was groundless. The lock of the gun was blown out, and the base of both barrels was fractured. It had been an accident.

That night Joy's hostess, discussing the tragedy, set a problem before her, which kept her awake far into the night.

"Poor Sir James," she said. "He is left without a child, for as I told you no one knows anything at all about Dick Bracknell's death, and it matters very much whether he is alive or dead, to any one but his cousin Roger, for he can never return to England."

To his cousin Roger," echoed Joy, "visioning the corporal, 'why should it matter to him?'"

"Because if Dick is out of the way, Harrow Fell will pass to him on Sir James' death. The estates are entailed, you know."

Instantly Joy saw the difficulties of the situation. Dick Bracknell might be dead, or he might be very much alive. In the former case the way was clear for his cousin; but in the latter, there were possibilities that filled her with dread.

The corporal had left North Star in an endeavor to solve the mystery of the disappearance of his cousin. If Dick Bracknell were yet alive, and Roger overtook him, he would probably try to effect his arrest, and if Dick resisted there might be trouble, and possibly Corporal Bracknell might be driven to have recourse to arms.

Suppose he shot his cousin, and so, in innocence, cleared his own way to the succession of Harrow Fell? Her face clouded, and an anxious look came into her eyes. She was recalled to herself by her hostess' voice.

In the morning she dispatched two cablegrams, one to Roger Bracknell, care of the police commissioner, Regina, explaining to him the circumstances, and one to the commissioner himself asking for the whereabouts of Corporal Bracknell, preparing a reply. Three days later the reply reached her in London.

Corporal Bracknell reported as missing. Supposed dead.

When she received it, she was greatly distressed, and made up her mind to return at once to North Star. Why she should do so, she did not make clear even to herself; and when Adrian Rayner pressed her for her reason, she was covered with confusion.

"Joy," he protested, "you must not do anything so foolish. We all want you here! I want you more than anyone else on earth. I love you, Joy. Will you marry me?"

"I can't," she said. "Don't press me, Adrian."

"At least you owe me a reason for refusal. I wonder if that reason has anything to do with this foolishness of returning to North Star."

She did not reply. He smiled a trifle grimly, and then continued, "If it has, you can dismiss that reason from your mind for good. Dick Bracknell is dead!"

"Dick Bracknell is dead?"

Her voice faltered as she met his gaze. "Yes," he answered. "Dick Bracknell, alias Koon Dick. He was your husband, was he not?"

"How do you know?" she asked quivering.

"That is a private matter," he replied. "Just as the manner of your husband's death must be kept private."

"What do you mean, Adrian?"

"I mean that I know who shot Koon Dick!"

"Oh!" she gasped, her hand over her heart in a wild endeavor to stay its fierce beating. "Oh! what—"

"There is no need for you to be other than frank with me. I saw the whole thing. I saw the flame of
